TO A LATTER-DAY SAINT, education means knowing and understanding not only the things of the immediate world, but the eternal principles of the Gospel. With these goals in mind, the prophet Brigham Young directed Karl G. Maeser to establish a Church school in Provo. Thus Brigham Young Academy was founded upon the principles of the worth of the individual and the teaching of high ideals to guide students toward immortality and eternal life.

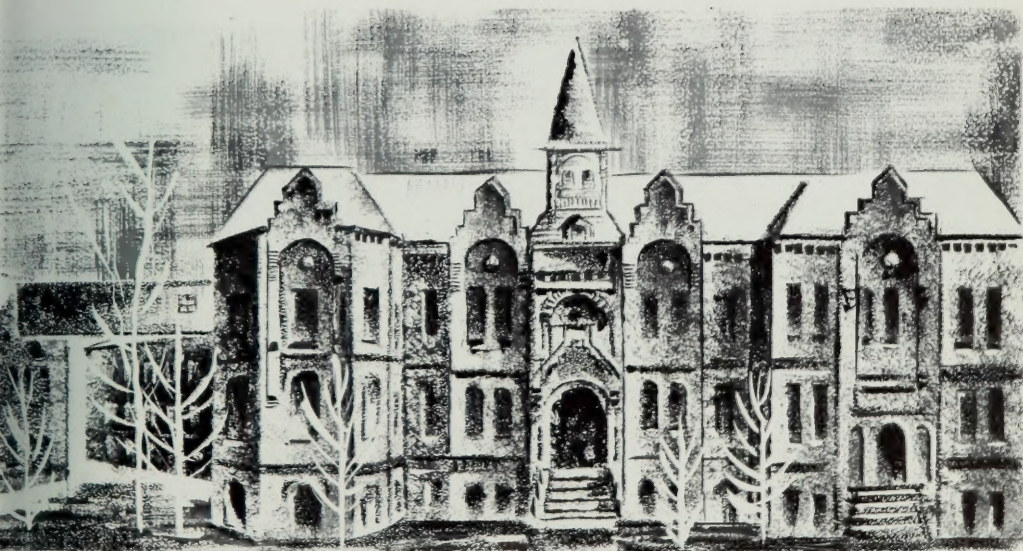

The Lewis Building at Third West and Center streets housed the Academy's first classes until it was destroyed by fire. While waiting for the Education Building to be constructed, activities were centered in the ZCMI Warehouse at the south end of University Avenue.

Delays in construction prompted Dr. Maeser's daughter to say, "But father, it will never be finished, the foundation is crumbling away . . ."

With his patient faith and vision, Karl G. Maeser replied, "No, no, my child, this will be finished, and many more"

for I have seen it."*

*The present university fulfills in part the dream of Dr. Maeser. As BYU's combination of revealed and secular learning attracted students from around the globe the "many more"
became a reality and spread to the hill.*

As the school grew to be the largest church-affiliated university in the United States, a less tangible element called the "Spirit of the Y" developed also. Traditions in keeping with Dr. Maeser's founding philosophy, scholarship, honor, and spirituality all became parts of this spirit.

Guiding the university and its students on the road to further progress and improvement are President David O. McKay, his counselors, and the Council of the Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, who compose the Board of Trustees of Brigham Young University. These men's exemplary lives of service, humility, and dedication to the betterment of man through education and spiritual living serve to instruct and inspire the students of the university to strive toward higher goals of perfection for better lives. With education as the basic precept behind this desired spiritual, emotional, and intellectual growth, the Board of Trustees continually endeavors to promote expansion and improvement of the university.

The outstanding leadership of President Ernest L. Wilkinson and his administrative council provide the force necessary to put into action the many plans and programs for improvement and expansion which are under way on Brigham Young University campus. The dynamic personalities represented in the administrative council have done much to further the missionary work of the church and the university as they have made contacts around the world in their endeavors to develop a more effective educational system for the students of the university. The inspiring personal lives of these men and their congenial relationships with the studentbody serve to instill within the students the goals and ideals which they should adopt to become worthwhile members of their church and society.

An important role in the smooth functioning of services for a studentbody of ten thousand is carried out by the men and women who are associated with and concerned with every phase of student and campus life. The many long hours which they devote to improving facilities and services for students, dealing with the citizens of Provo, and working as intermediaries between studentbody and university presidency and administrative council are but one indication that their lives are dedicated to serving Brigham Young University and its studentbody to the best of their abilities and capabilities. They also provide living examples to the students by which they are aided in establishing their personal values and ideals in order to live better lives.

In keeping with the ever-increasing demand for medical and agricultural specialists in today's world, the College of Biological and Agricultural Sciences is preparing its students to have a thorough knowledge in the field of life sciences. Included in the curricula are programs for pre-medical and pre-dental students, and it is hoped that in the future professional medical and dental schools will be available in conjunction with the college. Presently an outstanding program is offered for the training of medical technologists including a laboratory hospital internship for one year. Future teachers of the biological sciences are being well prepared to teach through such courses as will enable them to create an enthusiasm in their students for the life sciences. The constant desire of the department is to improve the facilities that are available, and current expansion is evident in the construction of new greenhouse facilities and new zoological laboratories.

Undergraduate students interested in agronomy comprised the membership of Agronomy Club, which is affiliated with the American Society of Agronomy. At the group's bi-monthly meetings prominent men engaged in work in agronomy or closely related fields addressed the students with the purpose of furthering recognition and advancement in their field. One of the activities of the club was setting up displays in the Brimhall Building which emphasized different phases of agriculture. A highlight of the year's activities was the club's spring quarter "Big Feed." Serving as officers were Derval C. Warner, President; Boyd Gurney, Vice-President; and Elmo Muir, Secretary. Dr. R. The College of Business strives to prepare students for the increasing opportunities and responsibilities of the dynamically changing world of the businessman. The abilities to exercise creative imagination and vigor for patterning a world of abundance to satisfy man's needs and desires, and to act jointly with other leaders in society are developed through participation and training in a wide field. Stimulating programs are carried out to prepare students not only to hold executive positions and further the development of the business world, but also to supply the world of education with intelligent, capable leaders who can aid in preparing others for entrance into the world of business and economics. The staff, with their insight into how the goals of the college may be achieved, add further to the training for a full and abundant life of leadership which is offered to students of the college.

PHI CHI THETA

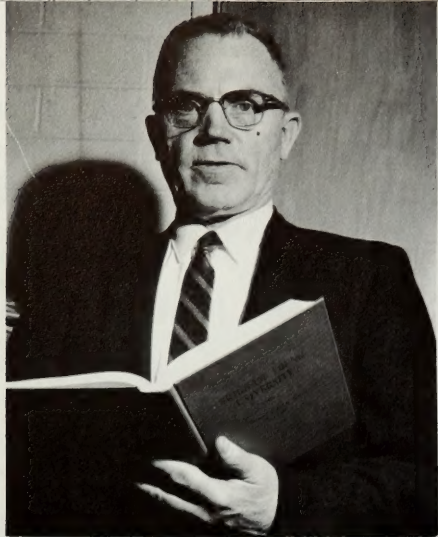

Girls majoring in business who maintained good scholastic standing and were active in school activities were members of the Psi Chapter of Phi Chi Theta, national business organization. Special guest speakers during the year included President David O. McKay's secretary and Arnold Friberg, painter of the Ten Commandment series. Highlights of the year's activities were the annual dinner dance at Maple Valley Inn, a spring canyon party and the Senior Farewell. A delegate was sent to national convention and the chapter received two of the organization's national scholarships. The officers were Marilyn Peterson, president; Sonja Leonard, Vice-President; Shirley Cook, Secretary; Alda Mae Powell, Treasurer; and Mrs. Ethelynn Taylor, sponsor.

A SPECIAL INITIATION ceremony was enjoyed by new members.

Since approximately one-third of the entire BYU studentbody is preparing for teacher certification, the role of the College of Education is becoming more important. Within classes in this college there is an emphasis on continued observation and participation in actual classrooms where prospective teachers prepare for their future jobs. They make an extensive study of the way students learn and adjust. They learn to adapt themselves to the school as a social institution, and examine the values for which American schools are strong. Fundamental methodologies and principles necessary to well-rounded teaching are also added. Student teaching is also a major part of the program for attaining a professional teaching certificate. Many special facilities are provided for students through the college. Among these is the instructional materials workroom where facilities are provided for all types of mounting, enlarging, coloring, lettering, and the operation of audio-visual equipment. The Curriculum Library and Graduate Laboratory also furnish aids to teaching.

With the belief that the happiness and richness of our lives depend upon the quality of our family life, the College of Family Living provides the broader training and greater knowledge which are required in many areas of family living in this age of rapid scientific, social, and cultural changes. In order to provide better training in human relations, the college is conducting studies of the development of good spiritual and mental health in the family. Under this program, students are brought to an understanding of the methods involved in setting up a good home life and forming the characters of the members of the family. In both the teaching and the research programs, the guiding principle is that the restored gospel is the only sure matrix in which true human fitness may be achieved, and that it is in the church's smallest ecclesiastical unit—the family—that the greatest influences on this achievement are found.

The College of Fine Arts exists in order to provide better coordinated academic and professional growth for students whose interests and superior talents lead them into the fields of music, art, and drama. Faculty members known for their artistic and academic work strive to accomplish the three objectives of the college—to provide opportunities for all students to gain general cultural values through acquaintance with one or more of the fine arts; for majors or minors in this field to acquire thorough understanding of the arts and to develop special skills; and for the prospective teachers of the arts to acquire techniques of teaching the fine arts on all instructional levels. Another aim of the college is to develop in the general studentbody a greater appreciation of the fine arts, with the hope that such cultural consciousness and appreciation will then be carried to the population as a whole when BYU graduates move about in society.

AT THE AIR FORCE ACADEMY National Invitational Debate Tournament, first-place winners Craig Christensen and Tom Read smiled at the trophies they received from Colonel Warren Thompson and Cadet Tom Owens.

The BYU Forensics Association took first place in the largest tournament in the nation, The Harvard University National Invitational Debate Tournament this year, and also at the Air Force Academy National Debate Tournament. These spectacular victories made BYU the only school in the nation to win two of the big five national debate tournaments. Debators Craig Christensen and Tom Read were responsible for these honors along with several other victories which the squad gained. The organization was composed of students interested in inter-collegiate competition in debate, oratory, interpretative reading, radio speaking, and extemporaneous and impromptu speaking. Included in the honors gained by the members of the squad were first places in debate at the Columbia Valley Forensic Tournament and also at the Western Speech Association Tournament. Both first and second places at the Southwestern Invitational Debate Tournament, and first place in public speaking and second in debate at the Tau Kappa Alpha National Tournament were also added to BYU winnings. Officers were Tom Read, Ron Inouye, LaNae Hill and Jan Lauritz.

General College enables BYU to more adequately meet the changing educational demands of the university and to more perfectly achieve its objectives by helping students develop responsible citizenship in the church and state and to acquaint them with their cultural heritage and thus lay the foundation for useful and productive lives in a democratic society. With these goals in mind, General College takes care of the educational needs of several classifications of students. Those who are undecided about their major field register in the Division of Provisional Registration and take a general course for one or two years while they decide on their chosen field. Other students who wish to acquire technical training and skill in special fields of engineering, business, and agriculture enroll in the Technical and Semi-Professional Institute for a two-year period after which they are prepared to take their place in the professional field of their choice. Students interested in Industrial Arts register in the Department of Industrial Education to follow a course which terminates in a Bachelor of Science degree.

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences provides for students the opportunity to gain a broad, general education that is fundamental to abundant living. In the area of humanities, the purpose is to develop within the student an understanding and appreciation of man's great heritage, his intellectual creations and accomplishments. The social sciences are concerned with the nature of man, his environment, his motives, his reactions to social problems, and the institutions he has created. Unlimited opportunities are available for graduates of this college in such fields as social work, teaching, foreign service, business and governmental work. Classes emphasize the need for breadth of understanding and harmonious development of personality by preparing students to live in an intelligent, satisfying manner through which they can get along with people, think clearly and communicate effectively.

PRESS CLUB

The membership of Press Club was composed of BYU journalism students. Functions of the club included helping send a BYU delegate to the National SDX convention, assisting with the High School Journalism Convention on campus, presenting awards at the Publications Banquet for outstanding campus journalistic accomplishment, inviting guest speakers to monthly meetings, and having special events parties. The club was instrumental in the establishment on campus of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, and started plans to petition for a similar chapter for women. Serving as officers for the year were Frank Haynes, President; Dave Thomas, Vice-President; Rita Wheeler, Secretary; and Alice Allred, Social Chairman.

The Brigham Young University chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, was established on campus in January, 1960. Thirteen journalism majors were initiated as charter members and installation ceremonies were conducted by Victor Bluedorn, national executive director, with Utah chapter members and the former national president in attendance. Officers of the new organization were Larry Day, President; Frank Haynes, Vice-President; Jeddy Levar, Secretary; and Duston Harvey, Treasurer. Dr. Oliver Smith was advisor.

Interest in political activities tied members of the Young Democrats Club together. During the year members met and heard such prominent speakers as Congressman David S. King, State Senator Alonzo F. Hopkins, Salt Lake City attorney Richard Moffat, and Western States President of the Young Democrats, Alan Howe, as they discussed matters of political interest. On the lighter side, the group held several socials such as a watermelon party at the MIA home in Provo Canyon. Serving as officers were Ron Brannen, President; Arlyn Bodily, Vice-President; and Janice Johnson, Secretary. Miss Jean Anne Waterstradt was sponsor of the organization.

The College of Nursing prepares young women to meet the ever-increasing demand for professional nurses in the medical circles of society, with the added advantage of possessing a Bachelor of Science degree as well as being registered nurses. Students in the college are provided with a wide variety of general courses and an extensive curriculum in nurses' training on BYU campus, at Utah Valley Hospital in Provo, and at the L.D.S. Hospital in Salt Lake City over a period of four and a half years. The student nurses are easily recognized on campus and in the hospitals where they obtain their experience as they go about in their attractive blue uniforms learning techniques, developing their skills, and aiding the hospital personnel as they care for the sick. The advantages of modern equipment, well-qualified instructors, and a variety of hospitals in which to gain practical experience in all phases of nursing result in competent, well-trained nurses which BYU proudly sends out into the professional field to aid their fellow men.

STUDENT NURSES ASSOCIATION

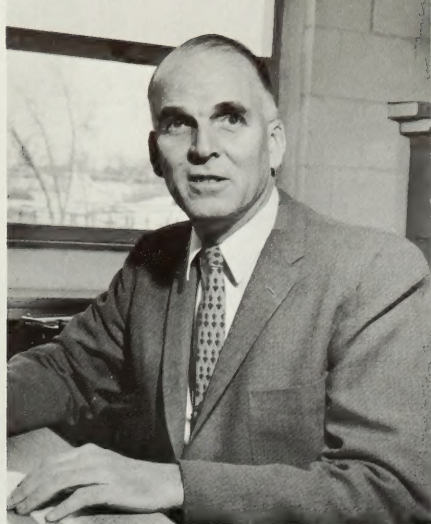

The purpose of the Student Nurses' Association is to better prepare future nurses for their professional roles in society. Although much of the nurses' education took place in Salt Lake City at the L.D.S. Hospital, the association still found time for various activities. Meetings included professional lectures as well as cultural and social activities. Other activities included fund-raising projects, their annual spaghetti dinner, a winter quarter invitational, and participation in Song Fest. As a special feature of the year, the unit sent a delegate to the National Student Nurses' Association in Miami, Florida. Officers were Donna Lorrion, President; Carolyn Lake, Vice-President; Kathryn Budge, Secretary; Linda Oertle, Social Chairman.

The rapidly advancing and changing world of physical and engineering sciences is affording an ever-broadening field of endeavor to the graduates of the college. In accord with this growing demand for more physicists, chemists, engineers, and others with higher degrees of specialized training, the College of Physical and Engineering Sciences offers an ever-improving curriculum presented by an outstanding faculty using modern facilities and equipment. In addition to the regular program which is carried out to prepare students for doing work which will further growth, development, and improvement in their fields, numerous research projects and general improvements are constantly in process within the college. Highly important research programs being conducted at present include Dr. Harvey Fletcher's work on music acoustics, Dr. Tracy Hall's research into the effects of high pressure and high temperature, and experimentation in bacteriological mining. Improvements which will be valuable to the college include the addition of a twelve thousand dollar blowdown tank, and complete revamping of the chemistry laboratories in the Eyring Science Center.

Christensen, and officers were Gary Hatfield, President; Robert Strang, Vice-President; Colin Stubbett, Secretary; and William Tuckett, Social Chairman. Activities of the year included semi-monthly meetings, field trips, participation in National Engineering Week, and social events with the Chemical Engineering Wives' Club. This year, the chapter was accepted as a member of the National Institute of Chemical Engineers.

Juniors, seniors, and fifth year students in Civil Engineering were eligible for membership in the Society of Civil Engineers. Allen Firmage sponsored the group and officers for the year were James Buckwalter, President; M. Glenn Weaver, Vice-President; and Jim Dike, Secretary. The year's activities included sponsoring speeches and movies pertinent to civil engineering, participating in National Engineering Week, taking a field trip to Glen Canyon Dam, and attending their annual banquet.

Electrical Engineers was founded to further professionalism and aid students, is connected with the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Institute of Radio Engineers. Activities for the year included no-cost help sessions, bi-weekly meetings, lectures by experts on different aspects of engineering, and Engineering Week. Social events included the fall dinner-dance, spring picnic, pizza party, and awards banquet. Officers were Paul J. Watts, Chairman; Ralph Merrill, First Vice-President; Ted J. Crowther, Second Vice-president; Lloyd Thayne, Treasurer; Richard Stratton and Joel Varney, Secretaries. Sponsor is Darrel J. Monson.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers extended membership to any junior, senior, or fifth year mechanical engineering students. The unit, which was affiliated with the Mechanical Engineering Department, was sponsored by John Simonsen. Officers of the unit were Ed Miller, Chairman; Ken Marshall, Vice-Chairman; Henry Todd, Secretary; and Gale Hamelwright, Second Vice-Chairman. Activities of the year included technical meetings presented by various industries, field trips to industrial and military installations, participation in Engineering Week, and a social event each quarter.

LT. COL. WILLIAM J. GIBSON

The Department of Air Science offers a four-year AFROTC program designed to fit into the regular academic schedule of BYU. At the end of this curriculum, cadets have earned thirty credit hours of academic work which count toward graduation, have participated in one hour of leadership laboratory a week, and have attended a four-week summer training course between their junior and senior years at an Air Force base. Successful completion of the program and graduation with a baccalaureate degree qualify the cadets for a commission as second lieutenant in the United States Air Force Reserve.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY

The Jesse E. Stay Squadron of the Arnold Air Society boasted a membership of the outstanding cadets of the ROTC Corps. The Society was social in that it was active in exchanges with units on campus, particularly the Sponsor Corps. The Society was honorary in that it admitted only top cadets in scholarship and leadership. The members of the group made up a large part of the cadet officers of the Cadet Wing of the ROTC Corps. Activities included Air Force guest speakers at the weekly meetings, a December formal, and sponsorship of a cadet rifle drill team. In the spring, the Commander and two other delegates were flown to the National Conclave in Miami, Florida, where policies of the national organization were determined for the coming year. The Squadron also participated in a service project assigned from national headquarters. Leading the Society were Charles R. King, Commander; Ray W. Tidwell, Executive Officer; James Gary Olsen, Operations Officer; Jack L. Christensen, Adjutant Recorder; and John F. "A sane mind in a sound body," is the aim of the College of Physical Education, formerly the College of Recreation, Physical and Health Education, and Athletics until this year. With this goal of a balanced education, both aspects, mind and body, are dealt with in a variety of courses, ranging from more academic pursuits such as various health and youth leadership courses, to the more physical matters of instruction such as volleyball and basketball. Their wide range of activities include overseeing the inter-collegiate athletic events and intra-mural sports and within the same college, driver safety classes and modern dance. Through these courses, all interested students are able to engage in the physical or athletic activity so necessary to a healthy body and balanced education. Facilities through which this can be accomplished are being continually added. The addition at the west end of the Smith Fieldhouse, constructed this year, is the most recent example.

Y SQUARES

The "Y Squares," affiliated with both the national and state organizations of square dancers, were very fortunate to have Earl A. Beck, Vice-President of the Utah organization, as their caller. As they practiced both round dances and square dances, they developed the ability to dance with confidence to any caller in the nation, and some members had the opportunity to dance to the best callers in the country at the National Jamboree. This year for the first time the group participated in shows with the Program Bureau. Officers for the year were Jack Nelson, President; Dolores Beutler, Vice-President; and Myrtle Borup, Secretary. Israel Heaton was the sponsor.

FOLK DANCERS

Students with an ability to dance well and in interest in folk dance and folk lore were members of the BYU International Folk Dancers. With L. DeWayne Young as director and Mary B. Jensen as sponsor, the group traveled to the San Francisco area, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, and throughout the central Utah area captivating audiences wherever they went. They were enthusiastically received for their knowledge, spirit, and skill in presenting programs for churches, school assemblies, special club and civic events, and halftimes of the BYU basketball games. The group dances included those from all European countries, the Americas, the near East, and some of the islands of the sea. The BYU International Folk Dancers were members of the Folk Dance Federation of California, and winners of the Program Bureau Jane Thompson trophy for two years.

ORCHESIS

Sponsored by Deane Chatwin and Shirleen Oswald, the BYU Orchestis was affiliated with the Physical Education department. This dance group of talented students was led by officers Lynne Palmer, President; Mary Jo Ellis, Vice-President; and Jerry Brown, Secretary. Qualifications for membership included participation in at least two junior Orchestis class meetings, along with extensive tryouts. Activities of the group consisted of putting on a student assembly, "The Hunter," entering a first-place Homecoming float in the beauty division, presenting a winter quarter dance concert, participating in Fieldhouse Frolics, assisting in the presentation of the drama presentation of "Romeo and Juliet," and appearing in the BYU Christmas television show. Members of the group climaxed the year by sparking the spring performance of "Sand in Their Shoes."

Based on the belief that no life is full and complete unless it is established upon a sound religious and ethical basis, BYU has offered courses in religion since the establishment of the university. One of the primary objectives of the College of Religious Instruction is to help students develop spiritually as well as intellectually and professionally, and thereby to enable them to live more rounded and complete lives with religious knowledge properly integrated with secular learning. The doctrines, organization, and history of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints comprise the largest portion of study. In addition, courses in comparative religions, philosophy, and Biblical languages are also included. In these varied programs, students are able to gain the knowledge required for study of the Gospel.

DOCUMENTARY RESEARCH and study give students a greater insight into their being.

STEWART GROW, Dean

As an aid to further improvement and another step toward fulfilling the destiny of men and their world, the Graduate School offers the opportunity for scholarly development at the highest and finest levels. The maturing of scholarship and the opportunity to participate in the expansion of the boundaries of knowledge are thrilling challenges to alert minds. The Graduate School aims to develop the power within individuals to do independent work and to encourage the spirit of research and discovery. Research and library facilities and teaching faculty are constantly being expanded and improved to provide better opportunities to the graduate student. There is a steady expansion in the number of areas offering work leading to the master's and doctor's degree, and with an ever-increasing number of graduate students, the future should see even greater growth.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

DR. REED BRADFORD AND DR. JACK TRUNNELL are working in research in the affects of alcoholism.

DR. DAVID DONALDSON'S objective in his research project is to work toward conquering cancer.

DR. D. ELDEN BECK and assistant are observing the effects of ticks in a most interesting research project.

IN THE GRADUATE LAB, many activities are coordinated to help graduate students further develop their skills.

STUDENTS

These were the people who made the university a living thing. Students from many lands with a variety of interests, all of whom gave a little of themselves to the university as they shaped their future through learning and living.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

The Brigham Young University chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, national women's honorary, was composed of sophomore girls who achieved a 3.5 accumulative grade point average for two or more quarters of their freshman year. Through their tutoring program and meetings featuring outstanding speakers, the group encouraged high scholastic achievement among the women of BYU. Officers of the group were Kathy Fagg, President; Kathy Tate, Vice-President; Arlene Wimmer, Secretary; and Chris Allred, Social Chairman. Miss Cleo McCracken served as sponsor.

David N. Wright, President

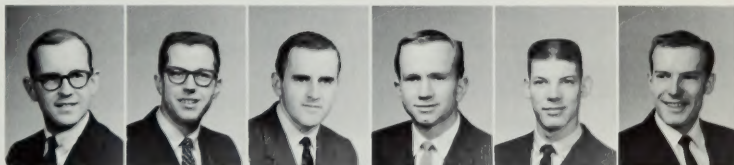

MEMBERS AND GUESTS had an after-meeting discussion with special speaker Henry Nicholes.

PHI ETA SIGMA

"Knowledge is Power" was the motto of Phi Eta Sigma, national honorary fraternity for sophomore men. Membership was contingent upon the maintenance of a 3.5 or better grade-point average during the students' first two or three quarters at BYU. The members of the fraternity strived to promote spiritual development as well as high scholastic attainment among the freshmen men at the university. During the year the members enjoyed many inspiring guest speakers at their meetings. A special feature of the group was their tutoring program designed to help students who desired help in order to raise their scholastic standing. Serving as officers of the fraternity were David N. Wright, President; Maury Cowley, Vice-President; Chad C. Wright, Secretary; and Doug Morrison, Treasurer. Dr. J. LaVar Bateman was sponsor of the group.

CHORALE

KURT WEINZINGER, Director

More than three hundred students with enthusiasm and a desire to sing were members of University Chorale, the largest musical organizations on campus. Although its large size made touring impractical, the group made many appearances under the direction of Kurt Weinzinger at devotional assemblies, BYU Stake conferences, and with the combined choirs at general conference. Besides presenting their annual Christmas and spring concerts, the Chorale participated in the spring production of "Sand in Their Shoes." Throughout the year members held numerous activities such as parties, firesides, and Christmas caroling in Provo. The year's officers included Kay Bassett, President; Bruce Freeman, Vice-President; Bill Coutta and Carolee Bates, Social Chairmen; Shirley Green, Secretary; and Elaine Ellis and Lorin Blauer, Librarians. The group was accompanied by Joan Thomander, and Carol Alldredge was the student assistant.

Row One: Beverly Thomas, Dora Glazier, Evelyn Neff, Judy Strong, Thelma Black, Annette Hansen, Nina Paulson, Carol Pulley, JoAnn Ottey, Margaret Shumway, Naoma Davis, Pat Tenney, Judy Johnson, Kara Rowberry. Row Two: Rosalie England, Karen Ruttier, Margaret Kohler, Hannah Oldroyd, Ron Hadley, Sherman Gibbs, Charles Naylor, Hans Baettcher, Jerold Ottey, Ron Lee, Carolyn Broberg, Yvonne Blayock, Virginia Lutz, Jean Tidwell. Row Three: Nancy Steen, Jean Palmer, Michaelene Packer, Karen Keller, Richard Robbins, Roger Miller, Max Hales, Vern Young, Ribert Merrill, Richard Paer, John Thompson, Colene Were, Judith Weininger, Jane Weaver, Carolyn Merrill. Row Four: Pat Clyde, Katherine Rex, Alyce Giler, Jim Scoresby, Lynn Poulter, Gordon Carter, Elijah Cardon, Jim Rawls, L'Dean McCue, Charles Soper, Douglas Gibbs, Robert Weddington, Mary Anne Keeler, Sylvia Berg, Nancy Folsom. Row Five: Marsha Hoyt, Rosemarr Burtenshaw, Julia Ann Nielson, George Jarvis, Dee Tracy, Steve Jarvis, David Perry, Blaine Quarntstrom, Raymond Madsen, Bruce Gibb, Curtis Forsgren, Marv Jenkins, David F. A CAPPELLA

NEWELL B. WEIGHT, Director

CHOIR

Organized in 1959 under its present director, Newell B. Weight, this year's A Cappella Choir consisted of eighty members chosen through extensive auditioning and qualification in musicianship, scholarship, and personality, representing fourteen states and Canada. During the eleven years of its existence, the choir has toured extensively throughout the western states and Utah. This year's activities included high school tours throughout the state in the fall, the annual campus spring concert, and appearances with the Utah Symphony Orchestra in Salt Lake City, Ogden, and Provo performing Crawford Gates' Second Symphony, which included the Hill Cumorah Pageant music. Besides having a party each year, the choir went caroling at Christmas to President Wilkinson's home, to the State Mental Hospital, and the downtown area of Provo. The highlight of their spring activities was their annual choir banquet.

A CAPPELLA OFFICERS, Marv Jenkins, Jim Rawls, Marcia Hoyt, Bob Merrill, Dee Tracy, Don Lee, Karen Keller, John Thompson, Margaret Kohler, and Richard Robbins supervised the organization's activity.

MADRIGAL

A NIGHT of musical entertainment was provided by the Madrigal Singers.

Throughout the year, the Madrigal Singers, composed of twenty-six talented students, and directed by Dr. John R. Halliday, presented their special selections of madrigal music as they sat around a candle-lit table. The group began the year with a high school contact tour, and throughout the year made many appearances in assemblies, church and club programs, and at stake and general conferences. They also presented their special Christmas and spring programs where special musical talents of the members, such as playing the clavichord and harpsichord, provided an additional note of pleasure. Between practices and performances, the Madrigals and their director enjoyed many pleasant hours together at their get-acquainted party, a winter toboggan party and a spring "clean the cabin party" at Dr. Halliday's cabin in American Fork Canyon, and their annual banquet held spring quarter.

SINGERS

MADRIGAL OFFICERS Vanja Yorgason, Charlene Anderson, McKay Rawlins, and Inel Collingwood.

RALPH WOODWARD, Director

CANTORUM

Schola Cantorum was a newly organized group this year, composed of two hundred and eighty-eight members from the combined Male and Women's choruses under the direction of Ralph Woodward and his graduate assistant, Robert Bowden. Requirements for membership, which included a 2.5 grade point average, musicianship, personality, and proper attitude, were rigid, but the resulting ensemble was a well-chosen, versatile group. Tours included a three-day southern Utah tour in December and a ten-day tour in March which extended northward to Calgary and Edmonton, Canada. The group performed at Wasatch Academy in Salt Lake City, in the annual Christmas Concert, presented a sacred concert in January which included Bach's "Magnificat", and participated in the spring performance of "Sand in Their Shoes." Other activities included quarterly parties, sponsoring a Homecoming float, and setting up a booth which took first place during Organization Week, sponsored by IOC.

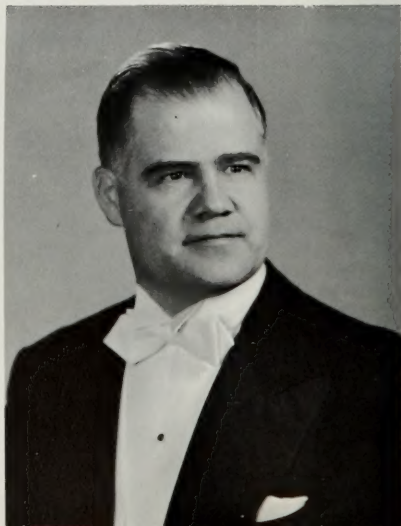

SCHOLA CANTORUM OFFICERS were DeMayne Bekker, William Ashmore and Glenna Stahle. Robert Jenkins and Julaine Johnson were absent when the picture was taken.

BAND

After holding auditions during registration time, director Ralph G. Laycock and the Concert Band began another active year. Besides presenting a special concert each quarter, participating in the annual Christmas program, and playing at numerous assemblies, the band performed at several high schools in central Utah and toured through Idaho, Washington, and Oregon during spring quarter. Group activities included parties autumn and winter quarters and the annual Spring Banquet. During the year, thirty of the members played in Intercollegiate Band in Berkeley, California, and in Salt Lake City, in recognition of the regard which Concert Band has earned as one of the outstanding collegiate groups in thhe United States.

CONCERT BAND OFFICERS were Carson Sharp, Vice-President; Naomi Boyer, Historian; Janet Grigg, Secretary; and Cliff Sorenson, President.

ROTC

ROTC CHORUS OFFICERS Gilbert Taylor, Robert Walton, and David Stannard.

Directed by Brandt B. Curtis, the ROTC Chorus had as its goal and purpose the advertising of the ROTC program at BYU. The group ranged from twenty to thirty voices, and any person who was a member of the AFROTC was eligible to sing with the group upon consent of the instructor. The chorus took its yearly tour to outlying communities in southern Idaho and Utah, and was invited to sing at Disneyland in Southern California. Other activities included singing at assemblies, conferences, sacrament meetings, ROTC graduation exercises, and participating in the production of "Sand in Their Shoes" in the spring. Group officers included Robert Walton, Commanding Officer; Patrick Simiskey, Assistant Commanding Officer; David Stannard, Flight Sergeant; Bert Taylor, Information Service Officer; Roger Dunn, Ron Child, and Ronald Beagles, Element Leaders. Others were Douglas Pulley, Guidance; Lynn Wariner and Victor Brown, Librarians; and Larry Nelson, Assistant Information Officer.

The members of Marching and Varsity Band led a dual life consisting of performing for half-time shows and playing serious works in preparation for their winter quarter concert. Special features of the half-time shows were their presentations of "Around the World in Eighty Days" and "The Circus." Drum major Ronald Bateman and majorette Beverly White, with the aid of the snappy Commandants marching group, added eye appeal and an extra spark to the half-time shows. Marching Band made a weekend tour with the football team to Phoenix and Tempe, Arizona, for special performances. Winter quarter, under the name of Varsity Band, the group practiced music of a more demanding type under the direction of Cliff Madsen. The culmination of their labors was their annual concert presented in early March.

CONCENTRATION AND practice result in precision marching.

OPERA

DON EARL, Director

With the rise of the "Opera Workshop" program in American colleges and universities and the desire of students on campus to perform in operatic productions, the Opera Workshop had its beginning in 1945. From that time to the present, many students have been given training in music and the technical requirements inherent in operatic productions. This year the group presented a variety of operas during fall and winter quarters and held socials for the casts after each opera. Some of the other activities which the members participated in were assemblies, radio and television performances, and touring appearances at the high schools in the local area and in part of Canada. The group enjoyed such extracurricular get-togethers as a swimming party, fireside and testimony meetings, and a spring awards banquet. Brent Shaw was President and his officers included Pat Kelsey, Shirley Harrison, Joan Justis, and Jeanette Royle. Dr. Don L. Earl was conductor of the Workshop.

THE IMPRESARIO

The Impresario, W. A. Mozart's one-act comedy with music, was presented by the Opera Workshop in November. This light-hearted satire on opera and its people concerns an elderly stage-struck Viennese banker, Mr. Angel, who tries to influence the local opera to hire an old worn-out soprano, Madame Goldentrill, who wishes to give her career a grand finale. When Madame Goldentrill fails, he produces an aspiring young opera star, Miss Silverpeal. Dr. Don Earl directed and conducted the production.

Carl Maria Von Weber's Der Freischutz, a romantic opera in three acts, was presented by Opera Workshop in February. This opera portrays the efforts of a forester, Max, to prove his superior marksmanship so that he may become the new head forester for the Prince of Bohemia and marry the girl he loves. Max is tempted by Zamiel, the Black Huntsman, to assure his success by using magic bullets in return for his soul. Max's deceit is discovered and he is put on probation and the shooting contest is abolished. Dr. Don Earl conducted and directed the opera.

OPERA WORKSHOP members presented Von Weber's opera Der Freischutz, during winter quarter.

NAOMI SESSIONS, Carolyn Woodruff, Jeanette Royle, Ken Adams, and Jacqueline Roberts appeared in the opera The Lowland Sea.

The American folk opera by Alec Wilder, The Lowland Sea, was presented in conjunction with The Impresario in November. In this opera, Wilder tells the story of a sailor, Johnny Dee, whose true love, Dorie Davis, promises to wait forever for him. When he is reported lost at sea, Dorie immediately marries a widower with three children. Johnny returns two years later, having been in Singapore when his ship sank. Brandt Curtis conducted the production.

THE LOWLAND SEA was presented during November on the same bill as The Impresario.

Sponsored by the Government Overseas Entertainment Service, a cast of BYU speech students presented Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" to overseas troupes for seven weeks. Under the direction of Dr. Harold I. Hansen, and accompanied by Mrs. Mayree Reynolds from Provo, the group toured Korea, Japan, the Philippines, Guam, Wake, Okinawa, and Hawaii, presenting their performances over forty times for the natives as well as the enlisted men and officers. The group was warmly received throughout the duration of the tour, and as a special reward for their services, the USO allowed them to present a special performance at the Church College of Hawaii.

ELEANOR BROUGH looked horrified as spirit Lynne Palmer frightened her while Harold Oaks looked on.

TOM SAWYER and Becky had a serious talk in Mark Twain's immortal story.

Youtheatre, a program of the Department of Speech and Dramatic Arts, strived to "involve children in creative and cultural experience before they become the forgotten children who love Lucy better than Toscanini." Youtheatre, under the supervision of Dr. Albert O. Mitchell in association with Max C. Golightly, and in cooperation with Provo and Alpine schools, was a member of the American Educational Theatre. This organization provided experience in the living theatre to the youth and children of Utah Valley and helped set a pattern for the entire Church. Included in the season's productions were the classic "Rumpelstiltskin," Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer," and an original pioneer-Indian play called "Ann's Papoose Hideout," which was a creative project developed through the efforts of college students with children. This play project exemplified the aims of Youtheatre to preserve and develop our heritage while providing creative experience and development for young people.

YOUTHEATRE

INDIAN VISITS to Ann's cabin provided moments of tension for her and the children.

TOM'S INGENUITY provided him with helpers in his whitewashing job.

POISON EDDIE, Quinn Gardner, got the worst of an argument with Mrs. Shellenbach, Gwen Wrathall.

MRS. MC THING

The Brigham Young University Theater opened its 1959-60 season with the hilarious "Mrs. McThing" by Mary Chase. Hailed by Broadway critics as the "Freshest play of the year," the production was directed by Dr. Lael J. Woodbury and played to capacity houses as well as performing for the Annual Rocky Mountain Theater conference being held on campus. The plot is concerned with Mrs. Howard V. Larue III who becomes involved in witchcraft after restricting her son from playing with Mrs. McThing's little girl from the "other side." The angered Mrs. McThing resorts to witchcraft to acquire revenge, and the results compose the glamorous, sometimes frightening, but hilarious climax.

HOWAY, Phil Thomas, was a favorite of local ladies played by Jane Seimssen, Corene Clarke, Mary Jo Ellis, Leah Holley, Lynne Palmer, and Marilyn Ord.

BENVOLIO, Johnny Mask, talked to Lord and Lady Capulet, Gary Stewart and Judith Olason.

LORD AND LADY Capulet, Gary Stewart and Judith Olason, resolved the family feud with Lord and Lady Montague, Lee Scanlon and Janice Anderson, after the death of the lovers.

The immortal double tragedy of William Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" was presented during the first week in November. Featuring wider and higher sets with two gigantic turntables, the play presented a unique staging utilizing the entire width of the Joseph Smith Auditorium stage. This presentation of Shakespeare's classic, directed by Dr. Harold I. Hansen, was given in tribute to Dr. Gerrit deJong, Jr., dean emeritus of the College of Fine Arts, who is now teaching languages.

JULIET, Lynne Palmer, tries to pry information concerning Romeo from her nurse, Corene Clark.

ROMEO AND JULIET

THE FAMILIES of the lovers viewed the tragic death scene of Romeo, Howard Oaks, and Juliet, Lynne Palmer.

CARENE CLARKE had an animated conversation with Sheril Hill in one of "The Rivals" scenes.

LEE SCANLON and Kent Nelson were cast members in "The Rivals."

Starting the new year, the BYU Theater's January presentation was "The Rivals," an Eighteenth Century love comedy by Richard B. Sheridan. With long, flowing gowns and powdered wigs, together with the stylized set pieces placed in front of a black cyclorama curtain, the production under the direction of Dr. Preston Gledhill lent itself to the Romantic Period of the Eighteenth Century. "The Rivals" is a comedy of the manners of the Eighteenth Century. After the artificial sentimentality of a long period of literature, the play's sharp dialogue, witticisms, and bright repartee have brought it fame as one of the classics of the "English" language.

Directed by Dr. Lael J. Woodbury, Arthur Miller's "All My Sons" was presented in February. This drama received the Drama Critics' Award for the best new American play of the season on Broadway. Concerned with the fortunes of the Keller and Deever families, this drama involved Joe Keller and Herbert Deever, who own a shop for manufacturing airplane parts during the war. Deever is sent to prison because the firm causes the death of many flyers by turning out defective parts. The love of Chris Keller and Ann Deever, and the bitterness of George Deever returning from war to find his father in prison and his partner free further complicate events. The reaction of a son to his guilty father climaxes this electrifying play.

BLAINE QUARNSTROM and Richard Iturgis, neighbors, visited with Gary Stewart in a scene from "All My Sons."

MAJOR HARRY CARGILL, Ron Olason pleaded with his fellow prisoners of war.

TIME LIMIT

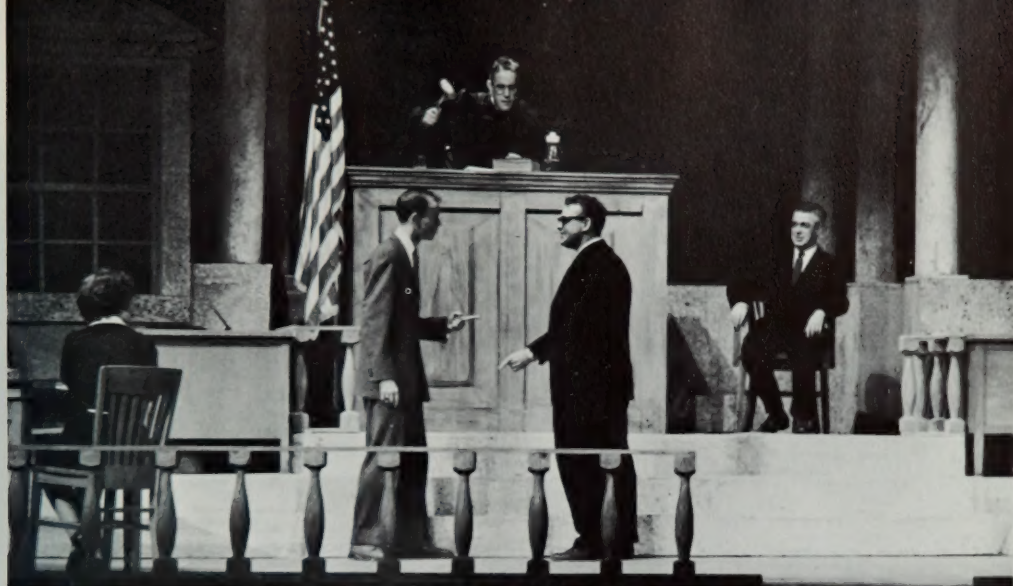

BYU Theater's March presentation was the modern war play, "Time Limit," by Henry Denker and Ralph Berkey. This story of enemy torture and the limits of human endurance involves the court-martial of an Army major who turns color in prison camp in order to save his men from more punishment after the major's son is killed by the prisoners for informing on a buddy. Ingeniously staged flashbacks reveal the true events in the camp, providing a new and terrifying picture of what happens when an American youth falls into Communist hands.

THE VIGIL

"The Vigil," a modern presentation of the resurrection of Christ, was the final dramatic presentation of the season under the direction of Dr. Albert O. Mitchell. The play takes place in a courtroom shortly after the tomb of Christ has been discovered empty. The gardener of the tomb area is on trial for the theft of the body of Christ. The complete modern setting includes all of the characters who were important in the resurrection including Mary Magdalene, Saul of Tarsus, Peter, and Pontius Pilate. A verdict is not reached, and the play's end is heralded by ringing church bells signifying Christ's resurrection and the dawning of Easter morn.

A MOMENT OF TENSION was created when Mary Magdaene, played by Judith Olauson struck out in anger at the gardener, portrayed by Robert Nelson.

ANNA, played by Ewan Harbrecht, told Joel, Dr. Lael J. Woodbury, good-bye as he left to go with the battalion.

MIXING of the calomel for ailing soldiers was done by the dancers.

JOSHUA, Walter Richardson, and Drusilla, Lorna Erickson were comic reliefs in "Sand In Their Shoes."

SAND IN THEIR SHOES

For the second consecutive year, "Sand in Their Shoes," the story of the Mormon Battalion, was presented in the Brigham Young University stadium May 27, 28, 30, 31, and June 1. The original production presented last year was in preparation for two years, and was presented during the last week of spring quarter, drawing crowds from throughout Utah and the western states. The original script was written by Don Oscarson and the stirring musical score was composed by Dr. Crawford Gates of the BYU music faculty. Dr. Harvey Fletcher, the "Father of Stereophonic Sound," designed the intricate four-track sound system. The gigantic musical was directed by Dr. Harold I. Hansen, for years the director of the famed Hill Cumorah Pageant. This year the sets were even larger than during the original production, encompassing almost the entire length of the BYU football field.

The Male Chorus and dancers performed as the Mormon Battalion.

"SAND IN THEIR SHOES" finale included the entire cast.

THE RABINOFFS provided delightful music for their audience.

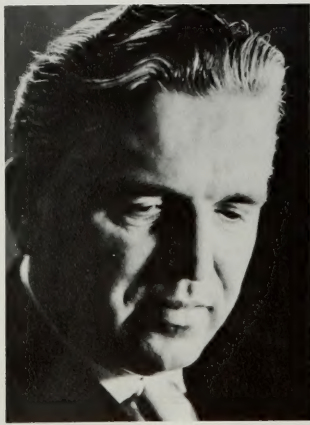

LYCEUMS

The 1959-60 lyceum season provided a wealth of opportunities for the students of BYU to partake of the expert and sensitive performances of world-renowned concert artists in all fields of music. The highlight of the year was the November performance of the Vienna Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Herbert Von Karajan. This program attracted visitors from throughout the western states. Other featured artists of the season included Eileen Farrell, dramatic, lyric, and coloratura soprano; Flor Peeters, Belgian organist of the Mechelen Cathedral and director of the Organ Department at the Royal Flemish Conservatory in Antwerp; and Leon Fliesher, young American pianist who was one of the first artists chosen to represent the United States during American Week at the Brussels World's Fair. Also appearing were cellist Mstislav Rostropovich, German pianist Hans Richter-Haaser, famed violin and piano duo, Benno and Sylvia Rabinof, and vocal duo Alarie and Simoneau. The Utah Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of maestro Maurice Abravanel, provided two evenings of entertainment during winter quarter. Highlight of the spring season was Marian Anderson, famed operatic star, who gave a stirring performance to a packed fieldhouse audience. Winding up the year's program was Carmen Cavallero's orchestra, which appeared in May.

PIANIST LEON FLEISHER's sensitive interpretations were a special feature of enjoyment.

PIANIST HANS RICHTER-HAASER provided rich interpretations of the music of the masters.

THE VOICE of talented Eileen Farrell thrilled her BYU audience.

THE WORLD FAMOUS Vienna Philharmonic provided a skilled and artistic performance for the BYU audience.

IAN ANDERSON'S appearance brought cay crowds to the Fieldhouse.

CELLIST MSTISLAV ROSTROPOVICH provided an enriching evening of musical enjoyment.

LYCEUM COMMITTEE MEMBERS were Chris Vickari, Kathy Rokes, Karen Keller, and Yvonne Blaylock.

A WARNING about the vast scope of Communist movements in the United States today was delivered by Herbert Philbrick, who "led three lives" as a spy for the F.B.I.

FORUMS

"Lectures In Contemporary Civilization," the class schedule called it. Forum assemblies every Monday morning, for which registering students received one-third hour of credit, were the biggest "classes" ever held on campus. Speakers with varied backgrounds and wide experiences discussed every aspect of life. Included among the top Forum speakers for the 1959-60 school year were the following: Governor of Utah, George Dewey Clyde; world affairs analyst, Howard Pierce Davis; General Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine ambassador to the United States; Vincent Sheean, world famous author and correspondent; Gerhart H. Segar, authority on German politics; Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press writer who lived in Russia for twelve years; John Mason Brown, editor of the Saturday Review; Edward Weeks, editor of the Atlantic Monthly; Herbert Herring, authority on Latin America; Gerald Moore, renowned accompanist; William Buckley Jr., editor of National Review; Edward Tomlinson, authority on South America; Dr. Richard LaPiere, social science scholar; Right Honorable Anthony Nutting, journalist and former minister of state for foreign affairs in Great Britain; Dr. E. Merrill Root, conservative English professor at Earlham College; and Dr. Lloyd D. Andrews, public instruction official.

THE TERRIFYING EFFECTS of Communist brain-washing tactics were revealed by Dr. William E. Mayer, First Marine Division psychiatrist.

HAILED as "Clown Princess of British T.V.," comedienne Jacqueline Mackenzie regaled the Forum audience with tales of her escapades.

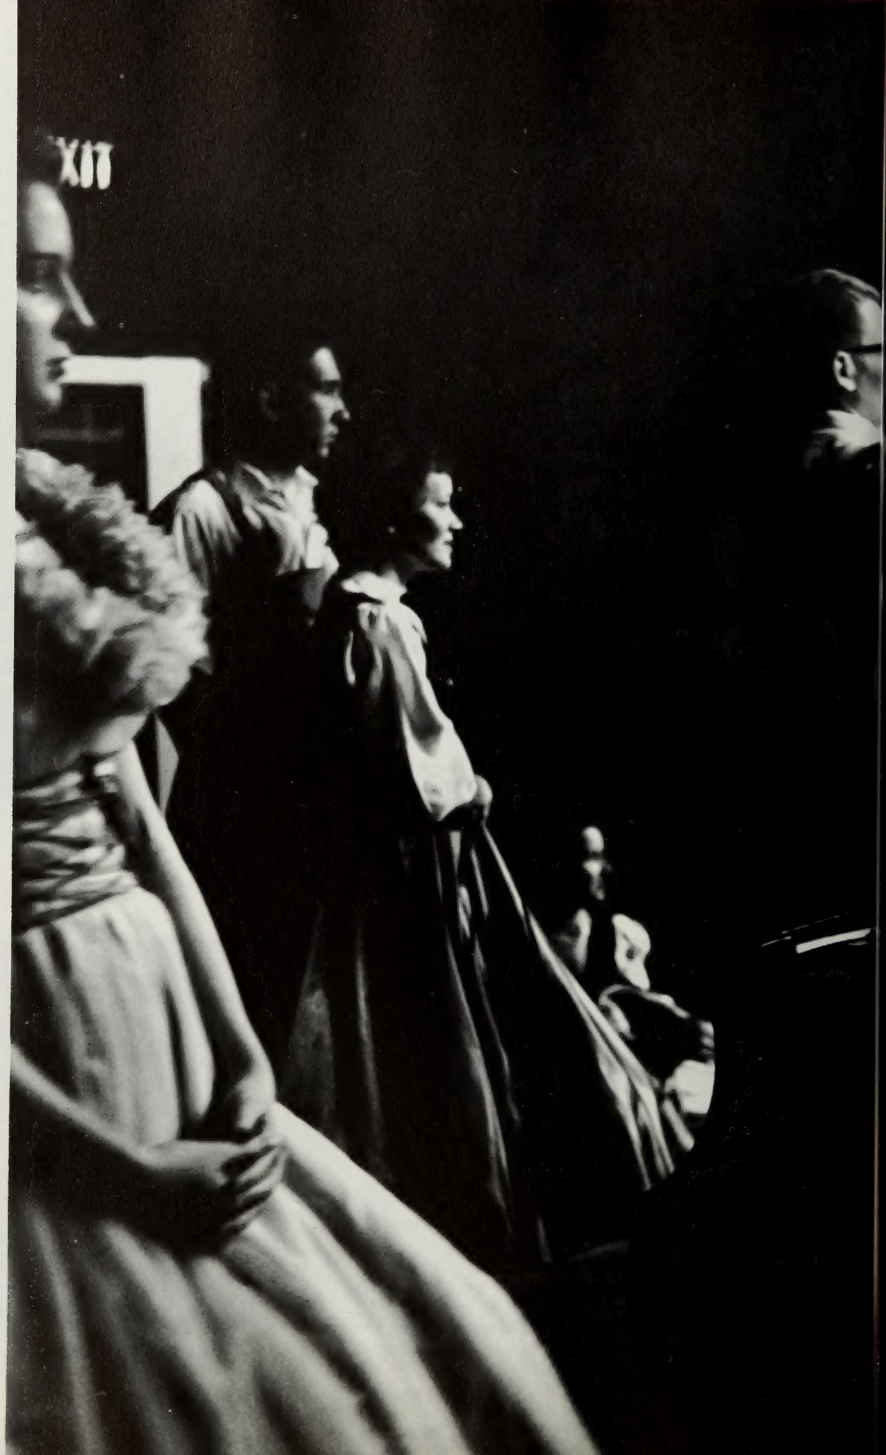

ACTOR VINCENT PRICE attempted to stimulate an increased enthusiasm for modern art among B.Y.U. students and faculty.

"WE CAN RETAIN the leadership of the free world—but, we have to be awake at home," exclaimed journalist Helen Kirkpatrick.

COMFORT, the racial problem, and the sacredness of the individual were discussed by author, editor, and publisher, Harry L. Golden.

PROGRAM BUREAU

THE "Y KNIGHTS", Del Faddis, student director of the Program Bureau; Tom Moon, leader; Farrel McKinney, Allan Young, Bill Soper, Cordell Chipman, Bill Nelson, Carson Sharp, Ben Knudson, Marv Jenkins, Dennis Spendlove, Bernell Berrett (drums), and Dave Tucker provided music on many Program Bureau shows.

PROGRAM BUREAU

JIM RAWLS, pianist-comedian, spoofed seeing performers.

Ward building funds strengthened, high school students converted to BYUism, and prospects for civic projects brightened, the Program Bureau moved on entertaining thousands both near and far from campus. Under the direction of chairman James Lawrence, all groups leaving campus, including several choruses and instrumental groups, were provided with transportation, meals, and lodging. Janie Thompson, talent director, worked at building talent many varied types. Students with ability or interest in many different areas were guided on their ways to becoming successful entertainers and even professionals. The Program Bureau sent tours to California several times during the year. Washington, Canada, and the entire Intermountain West were also visited by Program Bureau shows.

DEVOTIONALS

A CHORAL CONCERT presented by the Symphony Orchestra and A Cappella Choir highlighted the Thanksgiving Devotional.

ELDER ELRAY CHRISTIANSEN, assistant to the Council of the Twelve, admonished students to "Seek through repentance the light of life and the buoyancy of the Spirit which is promised."

Steps, ramps and sidewalks leading to the Smith Field House were filled at 10 a.m. on Wednesday mornings with students on their way to Devotional Assemblies. There, leaders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints talked to them about matters which were vital in their lives. The spiritual influences which these sessions generated could be detected in every phase of campus life. Included in the long line of speakers was President Henry D. Moyle who dedicated the two new Helaman Halls. Other featured speakers included members of the Council of the Twelve, Elder Hugh B. Brown, Elder Marion G. Romney, Elder LeGrande Richards, Elder Mark E. Petersen, and Elder Harold B. Lee. Elder ElRay Christiansen, Elder Sterling W. Sill and Elder John Longden, Assistants to the Twelve, addressed assemblies, along with Elder Marion D. Hanks and Elder S. Dilworth Young of the First Council of Seventy. Bishop Carl W. Buehner and Bishop Joseph L. Wirthlin of the Presiding Bishopric; Preston J. Nibley, assistant church historian; and Lowell L. Bennion of the University of Utah Institute of Religion were also assembly speakers. Dr. Harvey Fletcher, scientist and acoustical authority; Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin and Reed E. Callister, bishop of the West Ward in Glendale, California, were included among the other devotional speakers.

ELDER HUGH B. BROWN of the Council of the Twelve urged students to build a testimony by emulating the Master's teachings.

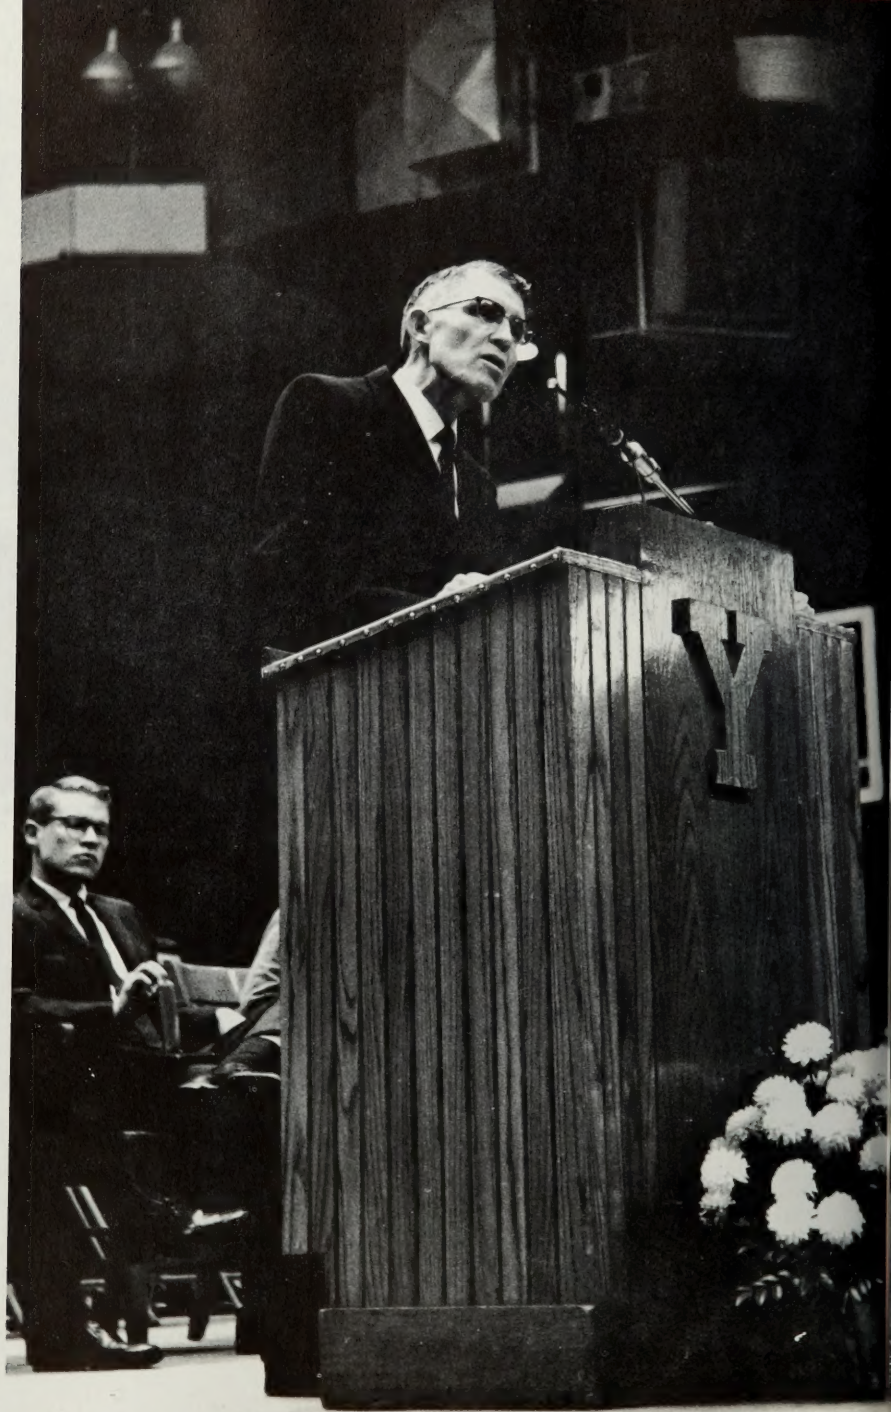

PRESIDENT HENRY D. MOYLE'S dedication of the newly constructed Budge and Merrill Halls was one of the highlights of Homecoming Week.

ELDER MARION D. HANKS of the First Council of the Seventy conferred with a distinguished campus visitor after devotional assembly.

ELDER LEGRAND RICHARDS of the Council of the Twelve, author of "A Marvelous Work and A Wonder," addressed a Wednesday devotional audience.

BYU STAKE

*Twenty-six wards, twenty-six centers of friendship, worship, and accomplishment made Brigham Young University Stake a vital

ANTONE K. ROMNEY, Stake President

DANIEL D. BUSHNELL, First Counselor

The largest Brigham Young University Stake in history expanded to even larger proportions when two wards were created just before the 1959-60 school year began, to make a total of twenty-six wards. These wards provided the religious training and fellowship necessary to Latter-day Saint students while they were away from their home wards. Much of the campus social life revolved around these organizations. Activity on the stake level was also an important part of campus life. The church-wide firesides, particularly the mass meetings of all stake members in the Smith Fieldhouse to hear a direct broadcast from President David O. McKay, were some of the highlights of the year.

STAKE PRESIDENCY

WAYNE B. HALES, Second Counselor

FRED A. SCHWENDIMAN, Clerk

First Ward Bishopric: Howard L. Bowers, Clark; Lyold Thayne, First Counselor; Russell D. Lewis, Bishop; Gordon V. Christensen, Second Counselor.

FIRST WARD

First Ward, composed of married students in Wymount Village, met in Wymount Chapel and the Social Hall. The ward included one hundred and seventy-five families and a total of two hundred nineteen children. Unique in this ward was the baby clinic conducted to give free shots and check-ups to children under five years. Ward activities, the only social life available for many of the members, included the annual Ward Dinner-Dance, the Gold and Green Ball, Christmas Party with Santa Claus for the little ones, a Christmas Relief Society Bazaar, and the compilation of the Wymount Family Yearbook with photographs and contributions of every family in the ward. Heading the ward organizations were Joan Carr, YWMIA; Sander Larsen, YMMIA; and Joyce McBride, Relief Society. Kenneth Ashton and David Dawson headed the Elders.

Boasting the largest ward area of any ward in BYU Stake, Second Ward was composed of about fifteen per cent married students and a large number of returned missionaries. The ward members shared a spirit of friendliness and enthusiasm in their year's activities. The members participated in several work projects throughout the year and gave outstanding support to the ward fireside program which included several talks from converts to the church. Another special project of the ward was to take pictures of all the members for the ward's historical record. Leaders of the ward auxiliaries included Bliss Finlayson, YWMIA; Marshall Chatwin, YMMIA; and Sonia Aycok, Relief Society. President of the Elders' Quorum was Wallace Lehr.

SECOND WARD

Second Ward Bishopric: Ted Winn, Clark; DeMoyne Bekker, First Counselor; Charles Taylor, Bishop; Thomas Christensen, Second Counselor.

Third Ward Bishopric: Boyd H. Busath, Second Counselor; A. Lester Allen, Bishop; Grady Edfield, First Counselor; Stanley C. Mickelsen, Clerk.

THIRD WARD

Third Ward, composed of Hinkley, Fox, and Felt Halls, also had five married couples since the First Counselor finally got married after years of prompting from the Bishop. The membership was composed of seventy per cent freshman students. One of the main ward projects of the year was attempting to start all meetings on time. A traditional feature of the ward is that there is always a returned Samoan missionary in the bishopric. The year's activities included canyon parties, ice-skating parties, Gold and Green Ball, and Ward Banquet. Heading the ward organizations were Norma Pocock, YWMIA; J. Wayne Sabey, YMMIA; and Ann B. Michelsen, Relief Society, M. Lyman Henrie, Elders' Quorum.

One of the few wards composed entirely of on-campus single students, Fourth Ward conducted services in the Wymount Chapel. Hinkley, Horne, and Harris Halls made up the ward population, the only married couples being in the bishopric and the head residents of the halls. The annual Ward Banquet held in connection with the Gold and Green Ball was the big social event of the year for Fourth Warders. In addition, a big Spring Outing was held. Under the direction of the ward Relief Society, new drapes were made for the chapel and were completed in time for Ward Conference. Heading the ward organizations were Marilyn Webb, YWMIA; Blaine Lund, WMMIA; Gwen Saunders, Relief Society; and Dwain Peterson, Elders' Quorum.

FOURTH WARD

Fourth Ward Bishopric: Mark Nelson, Clerk; Berkley Spencer, Second Counselor; Max J. Barryessa, Bishop; John J. Hunter, First Counselor; Ronald Hughes, Clerk.

Fifth Ward Bishopric: Spencer G. Sheets, Clerk; Dave Boucher, First Counselor; W. Frank Killpack, Bishop; Ray Lynn Hatch, Second Counselor; Alma Ray Ivie, Clerk.

FIFTH WARD

The membership of Fifth Ward come from Chipman, Maeser, and Penrose Halls, and the southwest quarter of Provo off-campus housing. Two members of the year's campus royalty, Homecoming Queen and Snow Princess, were members of the ward, as well as the only unmarried high councilman in the stake. Annual functions included the Gold and Green Ball, Ward Banquet, and Ward Birthday Party. An unusual feature of the ward was its one real member, who was converted, baptized, ordained an Elder, and sent on a mission to Uruguay by the ward. Ward organization heads were Dorothy Marie Nielsen, YWMIA; Kent Benson, YMMIA; and Sherry Hale, Relief Society. Elders' Quorum President was Rex Bruce Hayes.

Sixth Ward members came from all over the campus. Girls on the first and second floors of Amanda Knight, the fourth floor of Knight Mangum, fellows in D-7, and some off-campus students in addition all joined together in ward activities throughout the year. Some of the more prominent members of the ward included President Ernest L. Wilkinson, the BYU Stake Presidency, and many stake workers. Chiefly single students, ward members had much in common. Leaders of the ward auxiliary organizations were Donna Hill, YWMIA; Jerry Frisbey, YMMIA; and Karen Merrill, Relief Society. Elders' Quorum President was Garth Noyes.

SIXTH WARD

Sixth Ward Bishopric: Max Hill, Clerk; M. Glenn Weaver, First Counselor; A. John Clarke, Bishop; V. Dallas Merrill, Second Counselor.

Seventh Ward Bishopric: Sheldon T. Dahl, Second Counselor; Harvey S. Glade, Bishop; John S. Berge, First Counselor; J. Alan Blodgett, Clerk.

SEVENTH WARD

Eighth Ward was an all off-campus ward with about two hundred married students and the same number of single students. Because of the large number of married students, the ward was able to function in all auxiliary organizations including Junior Sunday School and Primary. The ward activities included the Gold and Green Ball, the Ward Banquet, and the annual Christmas party and music program. Heading the ward organizations were Diane Pyper, YWMIA; Steven Brown, YMMIA; and Betty Jo Dunnell, Relief Society. James Steel and Kenneth Smith were Elders' Quorum Presidents.

The Seventh Ward, composed of off-campus students and Allen Hall, is primarily a single student ward, but fourteen married couples are included also. Although it was one of the largest wards in the stake, Seventh Ward members were noted for their friendliness and enthusiastic participation in ward functions. Some of the highlights of the year included the Gold and Green Ball and the annual Ward Banquet during spring quarter. The ward won stake and district championships in volleyball and third place in the All Church Volleyball Tournament. Heading the ward organizations were La Preal Allison, YWMIA; Roger F. Jordan, YMMIA; and Margie Pace, Relief Society. Deon R. Gubber was Elders' Quorum President.

EIGHTH WARD

Eighth Ward Bishopric: Keith C. Terry, Second Counselor; Melvin R. Brooks, Bishop; Wilford J. Tolman, First Counselor; James Pyper, Clerk.

Ninth Ward Bishopric: James D. Stewart, Clerk; Bertell W. Cardon, First Counselor; Raymond E. Beckham, Bishop; Donald T. Nelson, Second Counselor.

NINTH WARD

Forty married couples, girls from Shipp and Robinson Halls, and a large section of off-campus housing made up the population of the Ninth Ward. Known as the "Neighborly Ninth," the ward tried as a whole to live up to its reputation. Many marriages among ward members and the birth of several babies were among the memorable events of the year. Over three hundred twenty active ward members participated in traditional ward activities from the Gold and Green Ball to weekly sacrament meetings. Heading ward organizations were Mary Fritzche, YWMIA; Bill R. Anderson, YMMIA; and Marge Potter, Relief Society. Elders' Quorum Presidents were Max E. Llewellyn, Robert Johnson.

Both off-campus students and girls from Fugal and Carroll Halls were included in Tenth Ward membership. About fifteen married couples were also ward members. Special "budget" activities were the highlight of each quarter, such as the party and dance in the fall, the Gold and Green Ball during winter quarter, and the spring Ward Banquet. Athletic interests ran high among ward members as they competed with championship teams in intramural volleyball and basketball. Meetings were held in the Smith Family Living Center. Ward organizations were headed by Barbara Coates, YWMIA; David W. Cobia, YMMIA; Sylvia Bryson, Relief Society. Dick Hirtzel and Brent Eager headed the Elders.

TENTH WARD

Tenth Ward Bishopric: Robert S. Gabbittas, Clerk; W. Bruce Hilton, First Counselor; Clyde D. Sandgren, Bishop; William G. Leach, Second Counselor; James E. Stewart, Clerk.

Eleventh Ward Bishopric: Terry L. Crapo, Second Counselor; B. West Belnap, Bishop; K. Lamont Hadfield, First Counselor Jay M. Smith, Jr., Clerk.

ELEVENTH WARD

The second floor of Knight Mangum Hall, along with thirty married couples and off-campus single students, made up the membership of Eleventh Ward. One of the original wards in BYU Stake, it holds several traditional activities such as the annual ward party in Provo Canyon. On this day, ward members spent the entire day away from campus worries, eating and, in general, enjoying themselves. Leaders of ward organizations were YWMIA, Marilyn Ord; YMMIA, Robert Weddington; Relief Society, Diane Stirland; Sunday School, Vern Payne. Don Stephenson was Elders' Quorum president.

Twelfth Ward population came from off-campus students in addition to Snow and Smith Halls and Wiscombe, Hardy, Larsen, and McKay Houses. All males were of the "off-campus" variety with a heavy sprinkling of graduate students and returned missionaries. The annual closing social was the highlight of the year. It was held in the MIA girls' home in Provo Canyon. Among the ward's accomplishments for the year were thirty-four marriages, including the second counselor in the bishopric and two clerks. Ward members met in Room 167 McKay Building. Auxiliary officers were George Jarvis, Sunday School; Joan Taylor, YWMIA; Norman D. Calhoun, YMMIA; and Marilyn McMeen, Relief Society. Larry Williams headed the Elders Quorum.

TWELFTH WARD

Twelfth Ward Bishopric: Ervin L. Larsen, Clerk; Max G. Pitcher, Second Counselor; J. N. Symons, Bishop; Stephen R. Covey, First Counselor; Charles E. Jenkins, Clerk.

Thirteenth Ward Bishopric: Wayne Merrill, Clerk; J. Gordon Christensen, First Counselor; Blaine L. Houtz, Bishop; Robert E. Francis, Second Counselor.

THIRTEENTH WARD

The members of Thirteenth Ward were from Richards and Tingey Halls and the right wing of Taylor Hall, and met in the south chapel of the Smith Family Living Center. Since all members lived on campus, there was a prevailing spirit of closeness and loyalty to the ward. The year's activities included the ward Gold and Green Ball, the Ward Banquet, and the annual party at the MIA home just west of Timp Haven. An unusual feature of the ward was its outstanding choir, which added a special note to many sacrament meetings and other ward functions. Heads of the ward organizations were LaDawn Whittle, YWMIA; Bart Thomas, YMMIA; and Patricia Kelly, Relief Society. Elders' Quorum President was Alvin C. Rencher.

Varied talents in many fields were characteristic of Fourteenth Ward members, as exemplified by the thirty-one experienced organists and forty experienced choristers in the ward. Meeting in the south chapel of the Smith Family Living Center, ward members enjoyed usual ward activities in addition to traditional special events. The fall exchange dinner-dance between Relief Society and Priesthood, snow party, and canyon party were high spots in the year's activity. Calling themselves the Friendly Fourteenth, ward members were single students living in Wells, Smith and John Halls. Leading ward organizations were Mary Thomas, YWMIA; Robert Seeley, YMMIA; Janet Nims, Relief Society; Elders' Quorum president was Rodney Fye.

FOURTEENTH WARD

Fourteenth Ward Bishopric: Karl Herde, Jr., Clerk; Scott Fisher, First Counselor; Dean A. Peterson, Bishop; Calvin Lasson, Second Counselor.

Fifteenth Ward Bishopric: David R. Callister, Second Counselor; Loftis J. Sheffield, Bishop; Richard H. Henstrom, First Counselor; Gary H. Carver, Clerk.

FIFTEENTH WARD

The Fifteenth Ward was composed of students from Rogers and Richards Halls and the left wing of Stover Hall, and met in the Joseph Smith Banquet Hall. The members were proud of the warm, friendly spirit of participation which prevailed in the ward. Their traditional ward activities, the annual Priests' breakfast, and the annual Christmas charity project, were the highlights of the year's activities. The ward had an unusual record of one hundred per cent ward teaching since May, 1959. The ward organizations were directed by Linda Barney, YW-MIA; Ronald Eggertsen, YMMIA; and Nola Harris Relief Society; David Dryden, Elders' Quorum.

Made up of single students from Gates and Kimball Halls and the right wing of John Hall, the members of Sixteenth Ward call themselves the "Close Ward." A "Kownty Fair" party was held at the beginning of the year at the Bishop's home. At another party, members had a work day and did yard work for some townspeople. During winter quarter an ice skating party was enjoyed, and a Ward Banquet was served during spring quarter. Another of the ward highlights was a spring canyon party. Leaders of ward organizations were Nancy Clark, YW-MIA; Gary Wright, YMMIA; Karen Teleford, Relief Society; and Clinton Baxter, Elders' Quorum.

SIXTEENTH WARD

Sixteenth Ward Bishopric: Ira Ralph Telford, Second Counselor; Ernest J. Wilkins, Bishop; Dallin R. Clark, First Counselor; Devorn Perry, Clerk.

Seventeenth Ward Bishopric: Eugene Pettit, Clerk; H. Darrel Taylor, Bishop; E. Wayne Pratt, Second Counselor; absent, Donald F. Jensen, First Counselor.

SEVENTEENTH WARD

Seventeenth Ward, including Budge and Taylor Halls and off-campus students, had as its aim in all activities and classes to make the ward the most friendly on campus. The ward emphasized excellent teaching in MIA and Sunday School, and kindled enthusiastic participation in all ward activities. Special traditions which the ward is noted for include a sunrise service on Easter Sunday, spring quarter steak fry in the Canyon, and the publication of the weekly "Ward Argus." Ward organizations were led by Ruth Moss, YWMIA; Wayne Crismon, YM-MIA; and Eleanor Bethsoid, Relief Society. Elders' Quorum President was Merlin Whittle.

The married students in Wyview Village comprised the membership of Eighteenth Ward, and had as many members under eight years of age as over. Such family membership enabled the ward to carry out a complete church program. As might be imagined, this ward is probably one of the most productive wards in the church in respect to baby production. The leaders of the ward organizations included Beverly Blasongame, YWMIA; Kenneth Adams, WM-MIA; Elna Petersen, Relief Society; and Judy Price, Primary. Monty Smith and Alan Anderson headed the Elders' Quorums.

EIGHTEENTH WARD

Eighteenth Ward Bishopric: D. Ray Reese, Clerk; Harry L. Tarr, Jr., First Counselor; Melvin P. Mabey, Bishop; R. Blair Murray, Second Counselor.

Nineteenth Ward Bishopric: Bill Bowers, Clerk; Byron W. Fisher, Second Counselor; Howard H. Barron, Bishop; Gerald G. Dye, First Counselor; Eldon Walker, Clerk.

NINETEENTH WARD

The "Friendly Nineteenth" Ward, composed of off-campus students north of Center Street and west of University Avenue, plus the third floor of Amanda Knight Hall, held their meetings in the Women's Gym. About twenty per cent of the ward members were married, and returned missionaries comprised another large portion of the ward membership. A Christmas party with Santa Claus, a ward dinner and Family Night, and a spring quarter party, were some of the activities enjoyed by the members. Entertainment at ward functions throughout the year was provided by the very talented members of the ward. Heading the ward organizations were Letty Lou Lant, YWMIA; Dean Hansen, YMMIA; and Dorothy Walker, Relief Society. Bruce W. Humphreys was Elders' Quorum President.

Students from Chipman Hall and Young Hall made up the majority of the Twentieth Ward membership. This ward also stressed friendliness in all the year's activities. Membership participation was encouraged through sacrament meeting talks, musical presentations, service on committees, and firesides. Activity highlights of the year were the Gold and Green Ball and the Ward Banquet. Heading the ward organizations were Betty Louise Moyle, YWMIA; Don R. Fielding, YMMIA; and Margaret Hall, Relief Society. Herman E. Funk was Elders' Quorum President.

TWENTIETH WARD

Twentieth Ward Bishopric: Craig K. Mayfield, Clerk; Harold D. Bywater, Second Counselor; Lester N. Downing, Bishop; Melvin T. Farnsworth, First Counselor; Weston H. Morrill, Clerk.

Twenty-First Ward Bishopric: Harold Singer, Clerk; W. Keith Garrett, First Counselor; C. Veril Clark, Bishop; Ward R. Forsyth, Second Counselor.

TWENTY-FIRST WARD

An information board with pictures, names, addresses, and phone numbers of all ward members was one of the most successful projects of Twenty-First Ward. This was done in an effort to get the four hundred ward members who lived both off-campus and on the bottom floor of Knight Mangu, better acquainted. Meetings were held in the Social Hall. Among ward functions was the annual banquet, attended by more than two hundred fifty, and completely self supporting. Leaders of ward organizations were David S. Moody, YMMIA; Arlene Larson, YWMIA; and Joan Ellingson, Relief Society. David White was Elders' Quorum President.

The north halves of Stover and Budge Halls composed the membership of Twenty-Second Ward, and thus every member was of single status. A unique feature of the ward was that it met in the Fieldhouse where classes were held in such rooms as handball courts and body building rooms. The ward was noted for its excellent spirit, its Priest work days, the large number of young men who went on missions, and its outstanding fireside program. Leading the ward organizations were Ann Marie Doty, YWMIA; Brian Drennan, YMMIA; and Ann Sheffield, Relief Society. Cont Jones was Elders' Quorum President.

TWENTY-SECOND WARD

Twenty-Second Ward Bishopric: Carl Johansen, Clerk; Martin F. Durrant, First Counselor; Stewart L. Grow, Bishop; Klane Forsgran, Second Counselor.

Twenty-Third Ward Bishopric:
Charles Sellers, Second Counselor;
Harvey J. Fletcher, Bishop; Kirk
Tolman, First Counselor; Wayne
Beebe, Clerk.

TWENTY- THIRD WARD

Composed of five off-campus blocks and Whitney Hall, Twenty-Third Ward had an unusual fifty per cent male population. The well-supported ward activities included weekly firesides, Elders' Quorum and Relief Society parties every quarter, unusual MIA programs which utilized the outstanding talent possessed by various members of the ward, an active genealogy program, and publication of a newsy ward paper every week. Ward organizations were led by Marian Carleton, YWMIA; Don Wursley, YMMIA; and Tonia Maret, Relief Society. Darwin Martell was Elders' Quorum President.

One of the newest members of BYU Stake, Twenty-Fourth Ward, was composed entirely of off-campus students, except for the third floor of Knight Mangum. The ward membership included twenty-five married couples, a large number of returned missionaries, and mostly upperclass women. Ward activities included the annual Gold and Green Ball and the Ward Banquet. Leaders of the ward organizations were Joanna Jensen, YWMIA; Ronalds Spence, YMMIA; and Elenore Rolapp, Relief Society. James Parker was Elders' Quorum President.

TWENTY- FOURTH WARD

Twenty-Fourth Ward Bishopric:
Ronald T. Leavitt, Clerk; Ted E.
Ridenhour, Second Counselor; M.
Carl Gibson, Bishop; Ray H. Garrison, Second Counselor; Bill Ro-lapp, Clerk.

Twenty-Fifth Ward Bishopric: R. Dermont Bell, Clerk; Don A. Florian, First Counselor; Robert J. Smith, Bishop; Lothaire E. Bluth, Jr., Second Counselor.

TWENTY-FIFTH WARD

Just created fall quarter, Twenty-Fifth Ward was already the best in the stake according to its members, who participated in an outstanding year of ward activities. Before Christmas, there were three single girls to each single boy, and then a new area was added to bring the ratio down to three girls to each two boys. Included in the ward boundaries were the left wing of Merrill Hall, four blocks off campus downtown, and the area of Canyon Road. Meetings were held in the Women's Gym and a taxi service was in operation to move the girls to and from meetings. Heading the ward organizations were Irene C. Papenfuss, YWMIA; Eugene E. Green, YMMIA; and Eleanor Brough, Relief Society. Joseph K. Papenfuss was Elders' Quorum President.

Off-campus students, the Graduate House, and Merrill Hall contributed to the membership of Twenty-Sixth Ward, which was one of the newest wards in the stake. The ideal balance of freshman through graduate students, with a number of married students and a majority of returned missionaries, created a closeness in the ward which is unusual for BYU Stake. The ward quickly asserted itself in the athletic department, being the only ward to reach the semi-finals in touch football. The ward organizations were headed by Catherine Barton, YWMIA; Martin Gurney, YMMIA; and Margaret Hansen, Relief Society. Elders' Quorum President was George Downing.

TWENTY-SIXTH WARD

Twenty-Sixth Ward Bishopric: Phillip D. Harris, Clerk; Duane M. Lewis, First Counselor; Vern H. Jensen, Bishop; Richard K. Hanks, Second Counselor.

BYU TWENTY-SECOND Ward took first place in the College Division of the All Church M-Men Basketball Tournament. Del Shumway, Jim Nelson, Tom Miller, Tom Means, Tom Maxfield, Gary Pedersen, Dave Sorenson, Elijah Cardon, Martin Durant, Drew Day, and Larry Egbert were team members, Blaine Sellers was absent when the picture was taken. Karen Davis and Charlotte Smith were team sponsors.

WARD AND STAKE ACTIVITIES

THE BYU SEVENTH WARD Gold and Green Ball, "Snowflake Lane," which JoAnne Bingham and Don Bullard attended, was representative of the many social festivities which were held by all campus wards.

DRAMATIC TALENTS sprang up all over campus as wards presented plays with local talent.

STAKE MISIONARIES worked with non-members of the church. Nana V. Flake, Clare Johansen, Daniel H. Ludlow, High Council Advisor; Sheldon C. Snow, Second Counselor; Hyrum L. Andrus, President; J. Kent Nielsen, First Counselor; Janet Burton, Secretary; Linda Lou Jackson, Clive Pusey, Henry Lee Carlson, Ray E. Caldwell, Warren Stevenson, J. Harvey Jackman, Heikki Hovland, Carolyn Avery, Young B. Lee, Row Two: Mary Ann Crudzinski, Vard B. Holland, W. Rex Candland, Tommie Matthews, Kenneth Andrus, Phil Brown, Ted Smith, Jim Dahl, and Eugene Holladay worked through the year.

SOCK HOPS were popular among BYU campus wards as after-MIA activities.

DIANE STIRLAND, Eleventh Ward Relief Society President, was a student speaker at BYU Stake Conference.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Endless hours of telephoning, organizing, checking, clearing and worrying went into the simplest of student-body functions. Thus, leadership and responsibility grew in student leaders.

REX LEE, ASBYU President, is a senior from St. Johns, Arizona, majoring in Accounting. He was a member of the General YMMIA Board for two years and has served on a mission in Mexico. This year he served as a member of the High Council of BYU Stake. He plans to attend law school and set up a practice in Arizona. He became a married man shortly before the 1959-60 school year began.

Top: DEE HADLEY and TERRY CRAPO, Executive Assistants to Rex Lee. Bottom: FARRELL LINES, Assistant to Max Pinegar; JERRY BAGLEY, Assistant to Heber Thompson.

MAX PINEGAR, Vice-President of Finance, is a junior from Spanish Fork, Utah. He has filled a mission to the Netherlands and has served as Associated Men Students secretary. After graduating with a degree in Finance and Banking, he plans to enter law school.

STUDENTBODY PRESIDENT

The executive branch of student government, consisting of the Executive Council, contributed to Brigham Young University's destiny through supervision of student affairs and activities. Under the studentbody officers' direction, students learned lessons in political science out of the classroom as they worked in a student government patterned after that of the United States. Activities from dances and assemblies to half-time programs at games came under their jurisdiction. They also acted as official representatives of the studentbody to the faculty, administration, and other universities. The Executive Council was also responsible for executing Senate legislation. During the year much of their effort was devoted to the Academic Emphasis program for raising scholastic standards, and emphasis was placed on the Honor System. Rex Lee, Studentbody President, presided over all general studentbody functions and had the power to veto any law enacted by the Senate. His quarterly State of the Studentbody address kept the campus informed on student affairs.

HEBER THOMPSON, Vice-President of Social Activities, is a French major from Richland, Washington. He is married and is in his senior year. Both graduate school and law school are in his plans for the future.

GORDON WELLS, Vice-President of Student Relations, is a senior from Logandale, Nevada. He is majoring in Political Science and plans to attend law school after graduation. He has filled a Western States mission where he was in the mission presidency.

AND EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

MAX PINEGAR, Vice-President of Finance, was responsible for all studentbody monetary matters. Most workers in student government became acquainted with him as they obtained campus purchase orders. Preparing a budget and sticking to it were his chief concerns.

HEBER THOMPSON, Vice President of Social Activities, was in charge of all social functions. His main duties revolved around the planning and preparation for dances held almost every week of the school year. This year special emphasis was placed on the exchange dance program.

GORDON WELLS, Vice President of Student Relations, had the three areas of pep activities, campus publicity, and public relations under his jurisdiction. The new "light-bulb" committee for increasing school spirit was organized under his direction. DOUG EVANS, Vice-President of Cultural Activities, supervised studentbody assemblies and lyceums, and also had the Program Bureau under his jurisdiction. He encouraged initiative and creative activities, which resulted in a fifty per cent increase in assembly attendance.

DOUG EVANS, Vice-President of Culture, is a Public Relations major and will enter into a partnership in a newly formed public relations agency in his hometown of Calgary, Alberta, Canada. He is a senior with interests all the way from skiing to music.

GRADUATE SENATORS Marvin L. Jenkins, Eleanor Bethsold, and MarLynn James.

SENATE

The legislative branch of BYU student government is represented by the Senate, which operates completely independently from the executive branch, but in cooperation with it. The Senate is composed of four senators from each class, three graduate senators, the four class presidents, an executive representative, and the Senate president. The Senate is the body of communication between the students and student government, administration, and faculty. It identifies the problems and needs of the student body and legislates to fill those needs. This year, six standing committees composed of senators and non-senators worked on complete codification of all ASBYU laws. Issues acted upon this year included full integration of foreign students on campus, methods of dealing with the National Defense Education Act in regard to student loans, establishing a grade-point requirement for appointed officers, as well as elected officers, and passing a resolution on registration procedure.

FRESHMAN SENATORS Ralph Tate, Lynn Youngberg, Meridene Christensen, and Boyd Johnson.

TERRY WARNER, Associate Justice.

STAN TAYLOR, Supreme Court Chief Justice.

ED FIRMAGE, Associate Justice.

SUPREME COURT

DIANE HATCH, Senate President.

The judicial branch of the Associated Students of Brigham Young University government is headed by the Supreme Court. One of this body's important functions is its existence as a court of high appeal from any of the lower courts on campus. In the tradition of the democratic form of government, no student need be satisfied with a lower court decision. Unlike the United States Supreme Court, but like the highest tribunals in other countries, the student Supreme Court will give advisory decisions as to the constitutionality of actions before the action has taken place. While this judgment is not permanent or binding, it does give the campus organizations a guide as to what they can expect as far as legality is concerned. Court proceedings are held approximately twice a month in the legal atmosphere of the Law Library in the Joseph Smith Building.

Phil Kunz, Rjay Lloyd, David Jacobs, Glayde Hill, Max Black, Don McCormick, Kent Harrison, A. Jay Stevens, J. Gordon Christensen, Woody Clayton, Harold G. Dunford, Fred Matis, Clifton Bright, and Gayle Gibbs, secretaries.

ASSOCIATED MEN STUDENTS

The goals of the Associated Men Students are to promote a spirit of fellowship and brotherhood among the men students by providing activities for them and opportunities for them to serve the studentbody. The year's activities included a shuttle service for incoming students at train and bus stations, Autumn Leaf dance, banquet for the highest grade-point average wing in Helaman Halls, Fite Nite, Winter Carnival, and activities with AWS. Highlight of the year was Men's Night at which the AMS Exemplary Manhood Award was presented to Elder Marion D. Hanks, member of the First Council of the Seventy and member of President Eisenhower's Committee on Youth Fitness.

CONT JONES, AMS Secretary.

LARRY BRIM, President.

KENT BENSON, AMS Vice-President.

Row One: Rex Lee, John Bingham, Glenna Boice, Sandra Reese. Row Two: Terry Crapo, Bill Jackson, Ron Robison, Doug Rhoton, Dixie Randall, Larry Brim, and Scott Fisher.

The Jr. Associated Men Students Council consists of twelve freshmen men whose main purpose is to help the AMS presidency create activities for freshman men. Since its formation two years ago, the council has become increasingly active in school leadership. This year the Jr. AMS edited a bi-monthly activity calendar which was available for all students. Jr. AMS directed the Keep Off the Grass and Keep the Campus Clean campaigns, in addition to Operation Need-a-Ride-Home to enable students to find a ride or riders to various areas. The Jr. AMS also sponsored a campaign to organize off-campus males into geographical areas with planned activities.

CABINET

The Cabinet of the Associated Students of Brigham Young University is primarily an advisory body to the Studentbody President. It is also useful in disseminating information to the studentbody from the executive council. It consists of the presidents of both the Associated Women Students and Associated Men Students, all of the class presidents, NSA coordinators, Student Participation Chairman, Supreme Court Chief Justice, IOC President, Senate President, Honor Council Chairman, and Elections Committee Chairman, in addition to the Studentbody President, the Vice-President of Culture, Vice-President of Student Relations, Vice-President of Finance, and Vice-President of Social Activities.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN STUDENTS

The primary purpose of Associated Women Students is to make every BYU coed feel a part of the university. The four AWS officers and their twelve council members sponsor numerous campus activities to include all campus coeds in order to accomplish this goal. Of most importance to the Freshman women is the AWS Big Sister Program, which keeps hundreds of BYU coeds busy throughout the year helping their Freshman "little sisters" get acquainted with campus rules and traditions. Other AWS-sponsored activities include Preference Ball and Women's Week, Songfest, Twirp Week, and transfer and international student parties. The AWS also sponsors many activities jointly with the AMS. These activities include Y Day, Cougar of the Week, and the annual Christmas Drive. This year an AWS housing board was created to co-ordinate on and off-campus housing and to work on such areas as academic achievements, dress standards, and housing regulations. In conjunction with this board, a president of off-campus women students was chosen to help unify and co-ordinate their functions.

The Jr. Associated Women Students council is composed of fifteen Freshman girls whose main concern is serving all the Freshman women on campus and helping them to feel welcome as a very special part of BYU. Under the leadership of president Julie Bagley, the council sponsored the Birthday Program to send every Freshman girl a birthday card, the Freshman Reception, and the Get-Acquainted Program through which every Freshman girl was visited by a member of the council. Other activities of this council included visits to the Health Center patients and the Mental Hospital, a Transfer Birthday Party, and raising money for a scholarship.

HONOR COUNCIL

The Honor Council celebrated its tenth year of existence on Brigham Young University campus this year, having established itself as a traditional and effective body in student life. The honor system as established ten years ago is designed to assist students in maintaining a high standard of honor, both in academic work and in personal integrity, with the hope that the system will influence the students throughout their entire lives. The Honor Council, composed of a student chairman, a vice-chairman of education, a vice-chairman of cases, and twelve student counselors, functions in a manner somewhat different from honor councils of most universities. Student counselors consult with violators of the honor code in order to help them improve their attitudes, rather than immediately expelling the students from the university. Another important function of the Honor Council has become the distribution of information on the Brigham Young University honor system to other colleges and universities throughout the country who are interested in establishing an honor system of their own.

ACADEMIC EMPHASIS

The newest member of the student government cabinet was instigated this year under the name of Academic Emphasis Committee. With their motto of academic excellence, the committee worked under the direction of Studentbody President Rex Lee. The six members were headed by Byron Fisher.

Shirley Nisson, Marilyn Neely, David Crockett, Gary Bunker, Lynn Jensen, and Byron Fisher, chairman.

PUBLICITY

Any form of publicity posted on campus was first cleared by Central Publicity Committee. The committee did well in its efforts to clear the campus of unsightly posters strewn on campus premises. To help eliminate problems, a new bulletin board was constructed under the auspices of the Publicity Committee. All activity announcements associated with the bulletin board were supervised by the committee, which approved posters and took care of posting events of the week on the bulletin board.

Roger Lewis, Russell Jensen, Chairman; Julie Pingree, George Ipson, Janet Stewart, and Jill Scott.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

The six members of Student Public Relations Committee worked under the direction of Reed Millar, who was responsible to the Vice-President of Student Relations. As a body, the committee worked to promote good public relations between students and other groups concerned with the university. Another function of the committee was to gather information concerning curriculum and life on the BYU campus through student polls.

Under the direction of Doug Evans, the Culture Committee was responsible for student assemblies and the lyceum program. Jobs such as central assembly chairman, taping assistants for assemblies, and judging the best of the year's assemblies were performed by the members of the culture committee. The big drive of the committee this year was to improve attendance at assemblies and lyceums.

CENTRAL DANCE

The Central Dance Committee, supervised by Blaine Quarnstrom, acted as an advisory unit for all dances which pertained to the entire studentbody. Various members acted as chairmen in charge of Mat dances, intermission, publicity, bands and scheduling, decorations, patrons, and refreshments, to name a few. The committee sponsored several dances for the studentbody throughout the year in addition to some other major social functions.

The ten members of the Elections Committee, under the direction of Sandra Reese, conducted every election on campus this year. They began their work by supervising the selection of the temporary Freshman Council, and continued with Homecoming Queen balloting, AWS and AMS elections, and voting for studentbody officers.

INTER-ORGANIZATION COUNCIL

The Inter-Organization Council is composed of the presidents of all the campus organizations. Its purpose is to counsel and advise all units and to help in solving all student organizational problems. The council printed handbooks for distribution to all units to acquaint them with school policy and procedures. Faculty advisors for all units were found by the council, and the council helped with financial problems with the aid of the Financial Vice-President. The council also aided in the establishment of new units and clubs on campus. IOC sponsored International Week to give the foreign students an opportunity to present their cultures to the school. Another activity of the council was to sponsor IOC Week, during which booths were placed on campus to afford all campus units an opportunity to present their purposes and activities to the studentbody.

NATIONAL STUDENT ASSOCIATION

National Student Association is a national student union with organizations on four hundred campuses. Members cooperate with eighty-five units throughout the world to foster understanding and exchange of ideas of students of all racial, cultural, and religious backgrounds. NSA participates not only in international programs, but in regional and national conferences sponsored by national foundations. The benefits of these meetings are then carried to each campus in order to keep student leaders well-informed about student ideas and problems the world over. On Brigham Young University campus, NSA members strived to put improved methods of student government into practice. They were greatly aided in their endeavors by Diane Hatch, one of the three national executive vice-president of NSA for the year 1958-59, who contributed a wealth of practicable ideas gathered during her busy year. The local NSA group also fostered a program to promote better relations with other schools in our Conference by inviting them to various studentbody events and participating in sectional conventions.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

COLLEEN CALDER, Vice-President.

"A torch was given to me that I might light the lamps of others as I seek to see the road ahead."

Elder Hugh B. Brown

With its torch of education, the class of 1960, after completing four years of active and successful schooling, left BYU behind and went out "to light the lamps of others." But those who left and those who remained will long retain memories of the activities they participated in: "Fiancailles en Baroque"—the Junior Prom, the Senior Ball, class parties and exchanges, Homecoming floats, units and athletics, Senior Week, and most important of all—Graduation. Through these came the love and appreciation which will always be the tie between the Senior Class of 1960 and BYU. The class designated the money raised through their class fund drives to be used to erect a greatly needed baseball scoreboard.

AND CABINET

GEORGE JARVIS, Senior Class President, is a sociology major from Salt Lake City, Utah. During his last year at BYU, he expressed his goal "to give to as many individuals as possible the opportunity to contribute to their class and their university."

COLLEEN CALDER, Senior Class Vice-President and home economics education major from Provo, stated her purpose as an officer: "I have endeavored to help other students gain as much from BYU as I have, and through this gain class unity and to encourage the Seniors to recognize and associate themselves with the graduating class of 1960."

JUDY LITSTER, Senior Class Secretary and fashion merchandising major from Huntington, Utah, said, "To share with every senior my love for BYU and to provide an opportunity for personal growth and development have been my goals."

JUDITH LITSTER, Secretary.

RON ROBISON, President.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

PEGGY PARKER, Secretary.

"It is the purpose and function of the class to develop a loyalty to the university." With this as a goal, the Junior Class moved to play an even more important and active part in student government. But along with this came their intra-class functions which built more unity and loyalty within the class. Over two hundred students participated in one form or another to present the traditional Junior Prom, and class parties, exchanges, and participation in university functions encouraged all the class members to gain the utmost from their junior year.

AND CABINET

RON ROBINSON, Junior Class President, is an electrical engineering major from Bakersfield, California. As he fulfilled the duties of his office, he said, "It has been my goal to carry out the purposes of a class organization by presenting activities for the benefit of each class member which would promote unity and loyalty to the university."

MARK BENCH, Junior Class Vice-President and English-pre-law major from Burbank, California, expressed his goal "To afford as many as desire to participate in student government the opportunity to do so, and to stimulate that desire."

PEGGY PARKER, Junior Class Secretary and elementary education major from Draper, Utah, stated, "It has been my goal to bring, through personal endeavor, achievement and recognition to the Junior Class."

MARK BENCH, Vice-President.

JOHN BINGHAM, President.

DENNIS TAYLOR, Vice-President.

The Sophomore Jamboree was just the beginning of what the officers termed "the year to make class cards worthwhile." The advice to "remember that no matter where you are from, you are still sophomores," stuck to the class members as they forged ahead to establish new traditions and to promote top activities. "Search for Love," the humorous class assembly written by Thiel Collette, the Sophomore Cottillion, the Junior-Sophomore exchange, "Yodeling Yule," the class Snow Party, and participation in Homecoming sparked enthusiastic class participation for the year. The class announced that their project would be to donate a collection of books to the new campus library. They hoped to have one book to represent each member of the class, containing the name and home town of its donor.

AND CABINET

JOHN BINGHAM, Sophomore Class President, is a political science major from Emmett, Idaho. As executive leader of his class, he said, "It has been my effort, as an officer, to raise the status and prestige of class government. I felt this was necessary because the class will be the tie in the years to come."

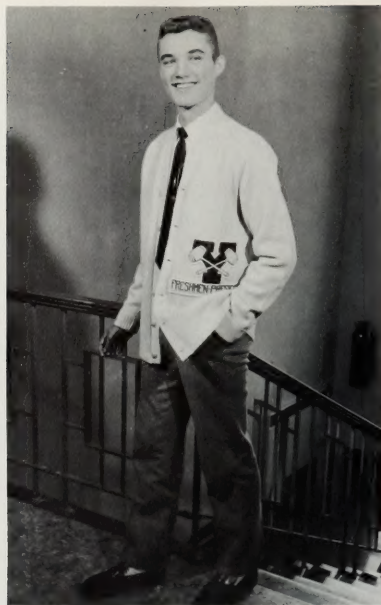

DENNIS TAYLOR, Sophomore Class Vice-President and political science major from Malibu, California, stated, "It has been my desire to promote unity in the class—unity which comes from participation and spiritual growth."

GAIL SPILSBURY, Sophomore Class Secretary and history major from Chicago, Illinois, said, "It has been my goal to stimulate class unity and to create a personal devotion to the class."

GAIL SPILSBURY, Secretary.

DOUG RHOTON, President.

FRESHMAN CLASS

DOUG STEWART, Vice-President.

The largest class yet to enter BYU made an outstanding impression upon its newly adopted alma mater and was well on the way toward establishing itself on campus. For the first time, the Freshman Class Homecoming float took top honors in its division. The class sold a record number of class cards, and held controversial elections which will long be remembered. The new officers developed class enthusiasm to such an extent that they were able to hold several class parties, to present an outstanding assembly, and to successfully sponsor a spring Kampus Karnival as a fund-raising project. A class newspaper was established to bring the class, officers, and cabinet closer together.

OFFICERS AND CABINET

DOUG RHOTON, Freshman Class President, is from Navasota, Texas. After his election autumn quarter, he stated, "As an officer, I wish to serve the class in such a way as to insure that the unity and enthusiasm which has been displayed thus far will continue throughout the years to come."

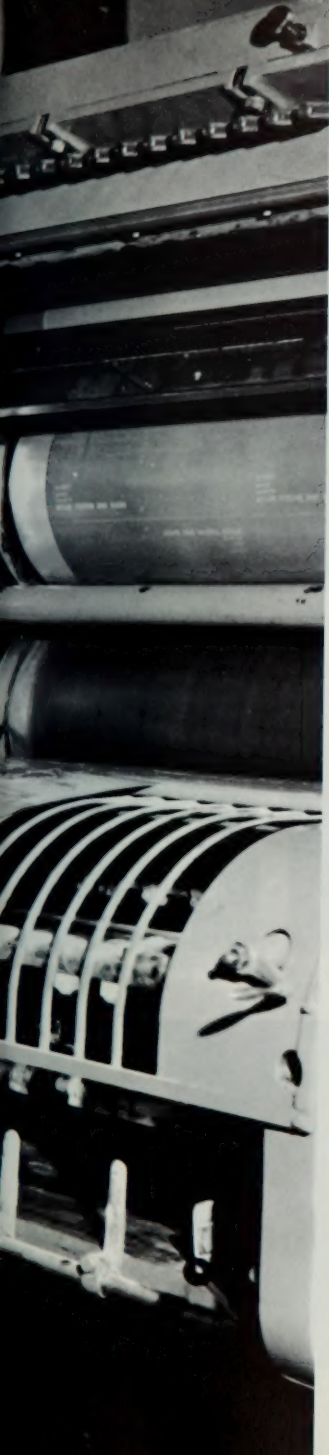

DOUG STEWART, Freshman Class Vice-President and art major from Las Vegas, Nevada, stated his goal as an officer: "To help the class achieve the recognition and honors which it is capable of attaining."

SUE EMMETT, Freshman Class Secretary and psychology major from Portland, Oregon, said, "I wanted to be a class officer because I enjoy student government work and I want to do my part to make the class of 1963 the most impressive to enter BYU."

SUE EMMETT, Secretary.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

Copy paper, proofreading marks, and the mysteries of press terminology became common things in the lives of student editors, writers, artists and business personnel, as they worked toward unending deadlines.

DAILY UNIVERSE

The fifth largest daily newspaper in Utah, the Daily Universe was published every schoolday throughout the year. The staff, made up entirely of students, set records such as publishing two eight-page issues a week in addition to the regular four-page publications. More special editions with twelve and sixteen pages were published than in previous years, also. The advertising staff took advantage of the extra pages and sold more space than ever before in Universe history. Special traffic safety campaigns were conducted through the paper at Thanksgiving and Christmas when students would be traveling home. Staff members also worked with the Academic Emphasis Committee in publishing several scholarship editions. The most spectacular Universe scoops included the story about the BYU freshman who spent the night injured on Squaw Peak. This Universe story appeared all over the country, via United Press International's wires, and staff pictures were sold to many local newspapers. In addition, the news of the missing focault pendulum was first reported in the Universe. With the new ban on posters on campus, the newspaper became even more important in publicizing dances, assemblies and other activities. The Unicorns, official Universe basketball, football, and softball teams, competed in intramurals. These journalistic athletes played the University of Utah Chronical basketball team in their annual game.

BANYAN

Wee hours of the morning and all day long on Saturday seemed to be the favorite working times for Banyan staffers. With layouts, picture appointments, proofs, broken trimming machines and a Banyan Ball to worry about, there was little time left for anything but studies. Long hours were spent in the basement of the Clark Student Service Center where rays of daylight never penetrated. Becoming daily better acquainted with principles of typography, design and composition, staff members spent free moments in their school life learning things which could be of use in many occupations. Serious work was mixed with lighter moments of joke telling, potato chip devouring, and even political arguing as the yearbook was produced. Loyal staff members who devoted time and effort to the cause were more than just a little relieved when the final pages were sent to the press and another year's history of Brigham Young University was completed. The job done, staff members traveled to Alpine for a party canyon style. They also socialized at a sneak-peek party, the night before yearbooks were issued to the studentbody, celebrating the completion at long last of the 1960 Banyan.

LES YOUNG, Artist

JULIE PINGREE, Banyan Associate Editor, was a junior from Ogden, Utah, majoring in Journalism. She served on both Freshman Orientation and Central Publicity committees in addition to her editorial duties this year. She worked on the Daily Universe as Feature Editor, and on the Banyan in previous years. As a sophomore she was a member of Spurs. Her future plans include professional newspaper work and eventually teaching.

JUDY BILDERBACK, Copy Editor, completing her third year on the Banyan, was a junior English major from Boulder City, Nevada. She was a member of Y Calcares and Phi Kappa Phi this year. Previously she belonged to Spurs, Theta Alexis and Alpha Lambda Delta. She served on the Belle of the Y Committee in addition to other school and Church activities. Her future plans include graduate work and teaching on the college level.

ALLAN FRAZIER, Layout Editor

LYNN THACKER, Banyan Editor, was a senior history major from Heber, Utah. His four years of work on the Banyan were interrupted by a mission to the Hawaiian Islands and two years with the U.S. Army in Korea. He was a member of Val Hyric social unit and Intercollegiate Knights. His future plans include a Ph.D. degree and teaching on the college level in Hawaii.

JOEL JUSTESEN, Banyan Business Manager, was a junior majoring in Speech. He was also chairman of assemblies for units and organizations, and a member of both Culture and Central Assembly committees. He served as Space Sales Manager on the Banyan in 1959 and will again be Business Manager on the 1961 Banyan. He was also a member of Alpha Epsilon Rho, national honorary radio and television fraternity, and served as an assistant director of the BYU production of "Sand In Their Shoes."

WYE MAGAZINE

The Wye is a literary magazine prepared by an all-student staff and published and distributed twice during the school year to students and faculty members. This year the magazine contained contributions in the form of essays, short stories, poetry, and plays. Representative of the magazine's artistic expression were paintings, sketches, photographs, ceramics, and interior design. The Wye was distributed winter and spring quarters of the year to students eagerly awaiting the appearance of the "new" Wye. Students with artistic or writing talent were afforded an excellent opportunity to express their abilities through this medium. Featured in the two issues of this year's Wye were articles on modern music, ceramics, and printmaking, representing a policy of wider scope in interest and accomplishment in the magazine.

ACTIVITIES

Students relaxed from study worries, met each other, and learned responsibility and organization in planning weekly dances, special week-long activities, and innumerable other campus events.

More than 250 student leaders loaded into buses September 16, bound for Sun Valley, Idaho, and a three-day Leadership Conference amid ski chalets and crisp mountain breezes. The keynote address by Elder Ezra Taft Benson of the Council of the Twelve, and Secretary of Agriculture, who had held conferences with Premier Nikita Khrushchev just 24 hours before, was the highlight of the week. The conference consisted mainly of informational sessions where such things as campus purchase orders, scheduling, responsibilities of leadership, and the structure of student government were explained. Delegates also took time out to try their skill at bicycling, horseshoes, swimming, and other less athletic pastimes such as conversation and singing.

ELDER EZRA TAFT BENSON highlighted leadership conference.

BYU Frosh were put in the spotlight in the first week of Autumn Quarter as they were introduced to the traditional freshmen activities of the university. They sported becoming blue-and-white beanies, attended numerous get-acquainted parties, and made their first trek up Y Mountain to weed and clean around the block "Y". By the end of the week there was no doubt that they had become an integral part of the university. The following week saw Y Town become Hi Town during Hello Week. Under the guidance of Ron Lewis and Marcia Bradshaw, the studentbody participated in the traditional Hello Week assembly, was treated to the three-act musical comedy, "Swinging on a Star," and attended the annual Hello Week dance with a new feature—a friendship-forming exchange dance program.

"Living Memories" of people, talent, events, and traditions highlighted 1959 Homecoming Week. The crowning of Sherry Hale as queen, with Gwen Newton and Lynn Fechser as attendants, set the mood for a week of festivities. Students felt the spirit of Homecoming as they decorated their residence halls, attended mat dances, constructed floats, and participated in the other annual activities. Two Helaman Halls were dedicated at the devotional assembly by President Henry D. Moyle, second counselor in the First Presidency. The story of the Old "Y" Bell was dramatized during Homecoming assembly, after which the new tower in which the Bell now hangs was dedicated, thus culminating a long, sustained drive by the Intercollegiate Knights to secure a permanent shrine for the traditional Cougar Holiday was the Kirby Stone Four, well-known satirical and swinging quartet, who entertained at a pre-dance concert Friday evening for the studentbody and the residents of Provo. The Winter Carnival Dance was held two nights with dancing to the music of Si Zentner's orchestra in a ski resort atmosphere created at the Fieldhouse. Due to the lack of snow during the week, snow sculpture was not held until several weeks later, when in a few hours' time clever, beautiful, and colorful snow figures sprang up around the Quad.

FINALIST COLLEEN REDFORD sang for talent contest.

The annual search for the exemplification of ideal womanhood on BYU campus was conducted in February by the Y Calcares and Intercollegiate Knights. Under the direction of Susan Lillywhite and Ernest Jewell, daily contests were held throughout the week to judge the contestants in the fields of cake baking, beauty and personality, dancing ability, talent, and popularity. Winner of the cake baking contest was Barbara Herron with a cake in the form of a pink and silver bell. Beverly White and Carolyn Johnson tied for second place in the private interviews for beauty and personality, with Colleen Redford and Judy Tilton in second and third places. At the dance contest, where contestants waltzed, cha-chaed and jitterbugged, Sherri Magnusson received first place with Lynne Barlow and Hannah Oldroyd as runners-up. In the talent contest, Sherri Magnusson again took first place with a dramatic reading. Marlene Brown and Colleen Redford were named second and third in the contest. Following a popularity vote by the studentbody the winner was announced at the Belle of the Y Dance, as the I.K.'s trekked up the mountain to light the Y for the occasion and in addition spell out the winner's initials in lights. A royal atmosphere was created at the crowning as the Belle and her attendants walked down a red carpet and Sherri Magnusson was crowned Belle of the Y by President Harvey L. Taylor.

The high point of the Y Week was Y Day, April 27, set apart as a time for the studentbody to participate in the general clean-up and beautification of the city of Provo, the campus and the block Y on the mountain. The hard work was over by noon, and then the fun began as all participatorh assembled at the football stadium for free lunch and an afternoon of races and relays which were unhampered by cloudy skies and rain. The day was culminated by a studentbody dance in the evening and the lighting of the Y by Intercollegiate Knights.

COACHES

The athletic program at BYU, under the able directorship of Eddie Kimball, has given the Y an active and comprehensive program which is building along with the school to provide a maximum amount of activity for all while still striving for excellence in every field. The Mountain States Athletic Conference, of which BYU is a member, is growing steadily in prestige and renown, and is striving to take its place among the top conferences in the country. Competition is extremely keen, and is constantly developing in excellence. Cougar teams took somewhat of a back seat this year, but the look is toward the future, as the department attempts to build up its teams to new levels. Several new coaches headed teams this year, with Floyd C. "Tally" Stevens as new head football coach, and Glenn Tuckett as new head baseball coach. Several other coaching changes were made, as the football and basketball staffs were reorganized. In areas other than inter-collegiate athletics, the Y had an outstanding program geared to maximum participation and intramurals for both men and women in addition to the regular program of physical education.

JUNIOR CHEERLEADER Cherie Sue McAllister, two and one-half year old daughter of Lawrence McAllister, added a special note to pep activities.

FROSH CHEERLEADERS Kaye Milne, Jack Losmann, Jerri Davis and Ned Solomon provided pep at Frosh football and basketball games.

CHEERLEADERS Kent Stephens, Wendell White (top), Gordon Hansen and Chuck Whiting provided leadership and organization for cheers and pep activities through the Cougar sports year.

PRESIDENT WILKINSON revealed the real Cosmo, Danny Gallego.

PEP ACTIVITIES

Under the direction of the Pep Committee and ASBYU Vice-President of Student Relations, Gordon Wells, pep activities were many and varied during 1959-60. They ranged from card stunts at football and basketball games to suspending Cosmo from a rope and catapulting him out over the fieldhouse audience, to pep rallies and send-offs of all types for Cougar teams. Cosmo, in person of Danny Gallego, provided traditional color and entertaining laughter for Y fans. The biggest excitement of the year came when President Wilkinson was unveiled as Cosmo, only to reveal the real Cosmo after some satirical remarks on his personal recommendations for changes in basketball rules. Cheerleaders under the direction of Kent Stephens, song leaders under Judy Dana, and flagtwirlers under Shari Hoffman provided the leadership for cheers, song, and team support throughout the season.

PEP COMMITTEE members, Udell Winkler, Ray Zinn, Annette Smith, Sharlene Hoffman, Annette Humphreys, Barbara Brown, Marshall Chatwin, chairman; Row Two: Brent Backman, Bery Wood, Carroll Jacobs, and Ben Shipper were in charge of promoting school spirit.

1959 COUGAR FOOTBALL

GEORGE SUTTLES

HAROLD HAWKINS

ROY TIDWELL

HEAD COACH, Tally Stevens, gives directions to LeGrande Young during a tense moment in a Cougar game.

The 1959 edition of Cougar football produced a season in which the Cats struggled through a somewhat frustrating and disappointing season to a three-won seven-lost record, and a season which taught the Cougars that balance, depth, and experience are needed together and in abundance to produce winning teams.

Disappointing? Yes, to most followers.

Frustrating? Certainly.

BYU football potential for 1959 had been rated from good to excellent by everyone before the start of the season, and optimism reached its high point when a local papers announced "Cougars rate nod as number one team in Skyline for '59."

Elsewhere, the Y was generally tabbed for second, third, or possibly fourth in the conference. Material, it was said, was excellent. The fact that the coaching staff was almost entirely new and the Cougars would thus have to adjust to a new system was overlooked as something which would be overcome by hard work and "spirit." Certainly it was disappointing to many onlookers that the Cats barely managed to salvage a third part of fifth place. That the season was a frustrating one, especially to the coaching staff and those directly concerned, is even more certain. In view of the fact that Cougar football had been on the upswing due to a new emphasis on the program after several disappointing seasons, and that "according to schedule," this was the year for them to "arrive," the campaign was even more of a let-down. But, to the close observer, the "storm clouds were on the horizon." When the team opened with a squeaker win against a rebuilding Arizona club, then lost to Fresno State and their passing wizard Bob Van Galder, there was evidence of things to come, even though optimism still reigned.

Then the roof fell in!!

The team moved into Cougar stadium for the first time in front of the home fans against a "weak" Montana team which hadn't won a game in its last 14 starts. The keynote for the Silvertips seemed to come when coach Ray Jenkins said: "We're sure to be improved this year. Last year we lost ten games; this year we only scheduled nine." Cougar faithfuls marched into the stadium freely predicting "at least" a 21-point win for their beloved Cats, in view of a crushing 49-0 defeat administered to the 'Tips at the hands of Wyoming earlier. Montana then proceeded to exploit the extremely weak BYU flanks and pass porous secondary while the Cougar offense sputtered and misfired due to numerous mistakes. The final score was 14-0, and the bubble was broken. A loss to arch-rival Utah followed the next week, and only a win over Utah State when the alert Cougars capitalized on five fumbles, and a heroic triumph over a strong Colorado State team 14-13 to end the season interrupted the loss skein. The story of the season seemed to be a struggle by the coaching staff to overcome weaknesses which were clearly evident; a struggle which was culminated with some success in the Colorado State win. The Cats were very strong in the line, where John Kapele, Lonnie Dennis, Paul Eckel, and Dave Barrus led out. Strong, that is, until they had to dip deep into the reserves. Good backfield talent marked the team, where Nyle MacFarlane, Keith Hubbs, Gary Dunn, Bud Belnap, and Jack Jordan, led the way. Good, that is, until an injury hit or a bad pass from center or a fumble caused it to sputter on offense. Good, that is, until it had to face an outstanding passer while on defense. The Cougar ends were good, but they were also slow, and this caused much hair-tearing when time after time an opponent would go to the outside with a quick pitchout to reel off a long gain. The staff experimented with many combinations and changes to correct the defensive weaknesses, and their multiple offense slowly evolved from using a majority of single-wing plays to a system in which T-plays were predominant. It is a tribute to their efforts that both defense and offense seemed to jell against Colorado State. State was a team which was big, strong, exceptionally fast and confident. They certainly weren't in a position to let down either, since they still had an outside chance for the conference championship. If Wyoming could lose to Denver, and Colorado State could beat the Cats, they had a tie for the top. But BYU had come out on that cold, windy day to salvage their pride, their prestige, and the confidence of their fans, and salvage them they did by topping the Rams even more convincingly than the score shows. Thus the stage is set for the 1960 edition of Cougar football, and having learned an innumerable number of lessons, the Y can head into the future with optimism.

BYU 18 - ARIZONA 14

The Cats opened their season at Tucson, Arizona, against an untried Arizona University team. This was a rebuilding year for the Wildcats, and the Cougars were generally conceded the favorite's role for the game. Some weaknesses began to show in the BYU defenses early in the game, and two draw plays to the weak side of the line just about spelled the Cats' downfall as the scoreboard showed 14-0 for Arizona at the half. In the third quarter the Cats started to click as they brought the score to 14-6 with Jack Gifford's 10-yard draw play. The Cougars then took to the air for their next tally, as Gary Dunn hit Harold Hawkins on a 42-yard pass play to bring the score to 14-12. The aerial game provided the margin of victory as Ron Startin connected with Howard Ringwood who carried to the 1. Startin then sneaked over and the Cougars had an 18-14 win.

BYU 16 - FRESNO STATE 27

Fresh from their win over Arizona, the Cats headed for Fresno, California, and were quickly installed in the favorite's role over the Fresno State Bulldogs. But there were those who felt they could sense an upset, and their intuition didn't prove to be far wrong as Bob Van Galder and his cohorts found some holes in the Cougar's defensive secondary and passed their way to a win. Fresno scored quickly on a Van Galder pass after receiving the opening kickoff. Keith Hubbs then took charge for the Cats and personally accounted for 8 points with a 51-yard punt return. The Bulldogs quickly erased the lead, running the score to 21-8 before the Cats could score again. Although Fresno gained 407 yards in offense against the Y's 261, the passing department was the real difference as the Bulldogs completed 180 yards on 14 completions.

Grizzly Club dominates Skyline Duel at Provo Upset.

This was probably the classic understatement of the year as far as most BYU followers were concerned. And this because of events leading up to the game. The Grizzlies hadn't won a game in their last fourteen starts; they hadn't beaten BYU since 1956; and they were still recovering from the 49-0 fiasco in which Wyoming's Cowboys nearly ran them into the ground. The 'Tips were at low ebb, or so the Cougars thought, but a sophomore named Bob Billovich found out the same thing that Bob Van Galder found out the week before—that the Brighams' pass defenses weren't quite what they should be. Half-way through the first period, he found Jim Grasky with an aerial covering 32 yards for the score, and that, essentially, was the ball game. Most of the fans in the stands settled back after the TD for the inevitable victory that the Cats were to grind out in the remainder of the game. True, they settled back, but it was to stunned silence, and the thing that couldn't happen did. The Cougars mounted drive after drive, and then saw their drives stopped by their own ineptness and an inspired Grizzly forward wall. The last Grizzly TD was only icing on the cake as the clock ticked off the seconds on the Cats' route to an embarrassing defeat.

BYU 8 - UTAH 20

Fourth Period Ute Drive Ends Doubts on Game's Outcome.

The Brighams went into their game with arch-rival University of Utah with only one way to go—Up. But the Utes saw to it that they didn't go very far as they squelched the Cougars with a last period drive. The Redskins had been battered the week before by the Washington Huskies, and Y fans had hopes that they would still be recovering and that the Cougars would finally jell to catch them for a win. But they didn't know the strength of the Washington club, which was grinding its way to a win in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

And the Cougars didn't jell!

Miscues and mistakes were the order of the day for BYU and eventually proved to be their undoing as the defense couldn't hold up against the Ute onslaught. Utah didn't pass much, but when they did, they found the mark at crucial moments to keep the Brighams on the defensive. Utah did run, though. They rolled up 341 yards rushing as speedy backs found the flanks vulnerable. And when their final drive came, Tony Campman and Bob Mastelloto found that the Cougars were weakening from tackle to tackle due to lack of depth, and moved through the forward wall toward their clinching TD. The Redskins rolled up a 14-0 lead over the Cats by halftime, but the Cougars mustered their forces and Lonnie Dennis blocked a Utah punt and recovered it himself on the Utah 4. After three plays Gary Dunn crossed into the end zone and then carried for the 2-pointer, and the Y was back in business. Another Utah bobble gave the ball to BYU on the Redskin 25 and they moved it to the 11, while excitement built to a feverish pitch. But the backfield mixed its signals and lost 10 yards, and from there the last Ute drive seemed almost inevitable.

'Poke Attack Explodes in Second Half.

After the Utah game, BYU traveled to Laramie, Wyoming, for the game which had promised to be the big one of the year in pre-season figuring, but now the Cats were down and almost out, and the game didn't hold much promise for anyone who wasn't extremely optimistic. The Cowboys had three wins and no losses in conference play, and the only blot on their record was a loss to a powerful Air Force aggregation. The 'Pokes were big, powerful, and fast, and they led the conference in almost every statistical department. In the face of this, the Cougars were slated to fall before the onslaught, and fall they did; but in falling, they played what was probably their best ball game up to that time. The line began to hold, and the defense, in general, got a good start on the road to recovery, with the end situation much improved. Joe Dempsey provided the initial advantage for the 'Pokes in the second quarter with field goals of 25 and 32 yards to give Wyoming a 6-0 lead at the half. In the fourth quarter, the Cowboy offense began to roll, and two touchdowns upped their lead to 21-0. The Cats then mounted a 73-yard sustained drive which was to come into pay dirt with just 23 seconds left in the game. Jack Jordan led the drive from the quarterback slot, and Lynn Stewart finally went over for the Cougars' only touchdown.

BYU 7 - DENVER 14

Returning to the friendly atmosphere of Provo, the Cougars brought an improving ball club into their Homecoming tussle with Denver hoping to get started on a new winning streak. Capitalizing on a DU gamble early in the first period, the Cats took over on the Pioneers' 31 and began to grind goalward. With barely 5 minutes gone in the game, Gary Dunn skirted end for the score and the Cats appeared to be on the way with a 7-0 lead. But after one exchange of the ball, the Pioneers finally started a drive which covered 95 yards in 10 plays. Quarterback Bob Lands led the drive as he hit Dick Gorden for 28 yards through the air and then gave to his fullback Doug Curliss who carried for 10 yards and the touchdown. The try for point went awry, and the Cats still held to their lead at 7-6. This score held up in a seesaw battle which saw the Cougar offense stall once on the DU 20 until the middle of the final quarter. At this point, the Hilltoppers recovered a bobbled punt return on the BYU 44, and this seemed to be the break they needed as they crunched to the Cougar 20 in 10 plays from where Sands baffled the Brighams' secondary with an aerial which hit Steve Meuris in the end zone. A two-point conversion gave the Pioneers their victory 14-7. The statistics column showed Denver to be even more superior than the score would indicate as they rolled up 311 yards on total offense to the Cats' 195.

BYU 18 - UTAH STATE 0

The traditional battle for the Wagon Wheel with the Farmers of Utah State saw the Cougars as a definite underdog previous to the game, since the Cats were still hurting from four consecutive losses, and the Ags were primed to capitalize on the Brighams' defensive weaknesses with a big and confident ball club. But all of the capitalizing in this game was done by the Cougars, who alertly recovered 5 USU fumbles and used them to advantage in an 18-0 win. The Cougar offense seemed to click much more easily as they used a new attack composed almost entirely of T and wing-T plays, and the defense, as the score will attest, held up admirably in blanking the normally potent State offense. After winning the toss of the coin for the first time during the season, Jack Jordan took over and led the Cats 79 yards in 7 plays for the score immediately following the opening kickoff. The big plays of the drive were Jordan's pass to Paul Allen for 25 and a draw play with LeGrande Young carrying which was good for 33. The score came on a Jordan pass to Tom Cole and stood at 6-0. Then, in the third quarter, the Cats mounted a drive after recovering one of the Aggie fumbles on their own 45. Ron Startin led the attack and Jack Gifford carried for most of the distance and the TD. State fumbled again two plays after receiving the kickoff, and the Brighams took over again, this time on the Farmer 33. Nine plays later, the Cats were in with their final score as Howard Ringwood carried, and the final tally was 18-0. This was the third consecutive the Cougars had won the battle for the Wagon Wheel, and was the first shut-out recorded over USU since 1957.

Fresh from their Utah State win, a steadily improving Cougar ball club traveled to Albuquerque, New Mexico, for a showdown with an extremely fast group of New Mexico Lobos. NMU was on a 5-game winning skein, and had three of the conference's top ground-gaining backs, who were all speedy scatbacks as well as powerful runners, and who were supposed to be the undoing of the Cougars due to the fact that the Cats were admittedly slow, especially in the end department. But the tough BYU line rose to the occasion to partially squelch the backfield speed, and it was left to quarterback Chuck Roberts to lead the Lobos to victory. In the second quarter, he passed for one TD and ran for another to open up the New Mexico lead. Then, a third quarter drive netted 77 yards for the Cougars, and Jack Gifford accounted for the only points of the day for the Y with a 39-yard run off tackle. It wasn't until the final quarter that talented backs, Perkins and Crandall, finally got going on a drive which culminated in a Perkins score just as the game ended.

The Cougars then journeyed to Tempe, Arizona, for a contest with the highly touted Sun Devils of Arizona State. The Devils were favored to overrun the Cats, but it was a potent aerial offense that did the trick as they proved out victorious with a 27-8 win. Quarterback Joe Zuger led the ASU attack which completed 14 out of 20 passes for an even 200 yards. Zuger and Nolan Jones led the first Sun Devil drive which was capped with an 18-yard aerial to Jones. Zuger did not let up, however, as he passed his way to the Cats' 21 the next time ASU got the ball, from where Jones carried for the tally to make it 13-0. The Cats managed to move the score up to 13-8 with Jack Gifford carrying for the TD and Nyle McFarlane carrying for the extra two points. But the Devils were not to be denied as they came roaring back for two more scores to ice the win at 27-8 to give them a 7-1 season won-lost record to that date.

INTERCOLLEGIATE KNIGHTS Wayne Sabey and Chuck Watson give the Old Y Bell a long-needed workout to sound the Cougar victory over CSU.

Then the Cats came to their finale against Colorado State's Rams, another extremely fast and rugged team. State had been beaten in the conference only by league-leading Wyoming, and the prospect seemed to be that the season would end in frustration for Tally Stevens' football forces despite their great improvement. Spirit and enthusiasm seemed at a season low on that cold, blustery day. The stands were only half-filled with Cougar faithful, and half of those present seemed to be sitting on their hands waiting for the inevitable, in contrast to the crowd which sat in on the Montana game just seven weeks earlier. What was inevitable then and now were almost diametrically opposed. Quite a contrast, also, was the football team which played that day, for lack of spirit and enthusiasm existed only in the stands. The offense which had sputtered and misfired all year was not evidenced as Gary Dunn, Howard Ringwood, and LeGrande Young used up most of the first period in a 19-play drive which was not to be stopped until BYU led 6-0. The defense which had not held up all season held up magnificently, having only two momentary lapses all afternoon in which a little scatback named Brady Keys asserted himself. In the second quarter, Keys took the ball on a sweep around left end and scampered down the sideline for the score. Ward Gates converted for the point, and CSU led 7-6. In the third period, Lonnie Dennis and John Kapele led the Y line on a charge which resulted in a Ram fumble on the 15 and a Y recovery. Nyle Macfarlane then scored both the touchdown and the two-point conversion. Then it was Keys' turn as he uncorked a 52-yard touchdown pass to Al Fortune. But the Cat line held as the Rams went for two points. That 52-yards was all the Rams got through the airplanes. The score may have been close, but the game was BYU all the way as the Cats rolled up 337 yards and 19 first downs to 8 for the Rams from Ft. Collins.

USU RAMBLERS vainly attempt to block a Gato point after touchdown attempt by Kitch Elton.

BYU Frosh football forces posted a record of three wins and one loss for their season, splitting two games with the Utah Papooses and defeating the USU Ramblers and the Montana State Frosh. The Gatos opened their season in Provo with a 14-0 win over the Ramblers of USU, scoring once in each half. The first TD came after a pass interception by Val Weenig on the USU 34, as quarterback Ron Mickle carried for the score. The second half was marked by an all-the-way punt return by Bill Wright as well as two other Gato drives which fell short. A passing combination of Bill Cravens to Marv Fleming proved to be the Kittens' undoing when they traveled to Utah, as the potent Papoose offense ran over them to post a 22-0 win. After the Utah loss, the Gatos came back to Provo to host the Montana State Frosh. The first frosh TD came on a 90 yard punt runback by Bill Wright, but MSU retaliated by going 52 yards in 8 plays for a score to bring it to 7-6 at the half for BYU. The Gatos added 2 more TDs in the last quarter as they ran the score to 19-6. The Frosh hosted Utah in their last game, and avenged their previous defeat by topping them by a score of 27-15. Bill Wright and Steve Clark combined to provide the Kittens' offensive punch, and Jerry Overton sparked the Papooses with a 93 yard kickoff runback.

WRESTLING

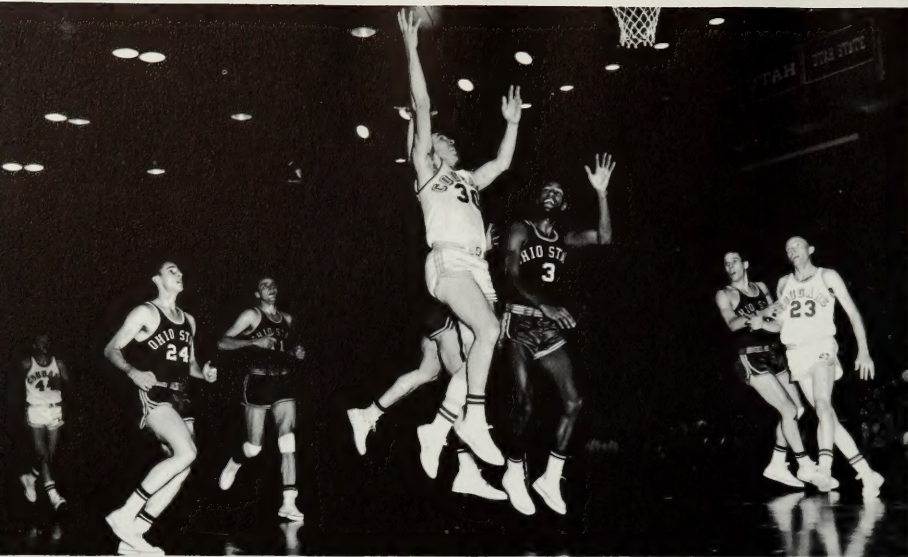

Plagued by injuries throughout the season, the Cougar mat squad had a difficult time putting a full squad together, and this and other factors combined to drop the Cats to sixth place in the conference. The Cougar grapplers never did get all eight first string wrestlers together as a team, as the injury bug even hit undefeated Chamberlain, who was sidelined with a knee injury. The team captain was Ron Leckie, and Reed Weight coached the grapplers during the 1960 wrestling season.

After winning their initial three matches by wide margins, BYU's netters faced the future optimistically with a squad of only one senior, one junior, and the rest freshmen or sophomores. The Cougars opened the season with a 9-0 win over the Air Force Academy at Provo, and then gained revenge at the expense of arch-rival USU 7-0 in their first conference test. They followed this with a 6-1 win over Montana, and had high hopes for success in the Western Division and conference meets on the strength of their showing in these lopsided wins.

BASKETBALL

Cougar basketball forces struggled through a somewhat disastrous season to a 7 won 19 lost record—a season which saw the Cats play some of the top ranked teams in the nation, and a season which saw them finish in the Skyline Conference second division for the first time under the coaching reins of Stan Watts. Watts' basketball forces played what was possibly the most difficult preseason schedule ever played by a BYU team, as they met such teams as UCLA, USC, Kansas, Kansas State, Michigan State, and Ohio State. These six teams were met in successive games, and were all ranked in the top twenty teams in the nation at the time the Cats played them. The conference campaign didn't give the Cats any chance to let up either, as Utah and Utah State battled it out for the championship, and both were rated among the top ten teams in the nation for the duration of the season. Colorado State and Denver also finished ahead of the Cats, in one of the toughest races ever held in the Skyline Conference. The Cats opened their season at home with a two-game series against the Washington Huskies and split the series by losing the second game by a 60-52 margin after winning their opener 54-52. A 6'8" sophomore, Bill Hanson, proved to be the spoiler for Washington in the second game and almost proved to be the Cougars' undoing Friday before he fouled out early in the second half. He bit for 16 counters Friday and counted 14 Saturday, along with spearheading a rebounding effort which saw the Huskies pick off 53 rebounds to 23 for the Cats. The Y led most of the way Friday, but it was left to Jan Robinson to hit a fielder in the closing minutes and break a 52-52 tie for the Cougar victory.

The first road trip of the season took Coach Stan Watts' crew to southern California for games against UCLA and USC. Both teams were highly touted, and they lived up to those press notices as the Cats lost both games by wide margins, 64-42 and 79-61. Things didn't get any better during the hoopsters' next two games, as they traveled to the Midwest and lost two games to Kansas State and Kansas by scores of 86-65 and 96-64 respectively.

A return home to the friendly confines of Smith Fieldhouse seemed to pick the Cougars up, as they beat a Michigan State team, which was ranked 11th nationally, by a score of 79-75. The game was one of the high points of the season for the roundballers, as Gary Earnest hit for 4 points in the final 34 seconds to cap the victory. The next night, the Y came up against the second ranked team in the nation, Ohio State, and their heralded sophomore, Jerry Lucas. This same team eventually came out as top team in the nation as they topped California's Bears in the NCAA finals. And they certainly didn't disappoint anyone, as they rolled to a 91-97 victory on the heels of a phenomenal effort by Lucas. He hit for 36 points, and hit an unbelievable 16 out of 19 field goal attempts. Dave Eastis again was top point producer for the Cats with 23 counters.

A swing to the East during the holidays was highlighted by the Cougars' participation in the Hurricane Invitational at Miami, Florida. The first game against Miami U was all offense, as the Hurricanes' little 5'6" guard, Dick Hickok, led an offensive onslaught which ran up a season high 110 points against the Brighams. Mark Miller came off the bench to can 27 points in this game and win a start-

Dave Eastis and Gary Earnest led the team in a comeback against Florida the next night, as Dave hit 21 and Gary hit 20 points to lead a 74-65 win which gave the Cats third place in the preseason finale with 29 points as Loyola University succeeded in topping the Brighams 82-76 in an overtime period.

The Y opened regular season play with a road trip to Missoula, Montana, and returned home with a 63-58 win under their belts at the expense of Montana's Grizzlies. Returning home, the Cougars next encountered Wyoming, and CSU and came away from this severe test with a split, as they topped the Cowboys 73-52, but lost a thriller to the CSU Rams 53-51. The Y held only a slim 29-27 lead at half-time against Wyoming, but a second half which saw them hit a hot 56 per cent from the field gave them the win by a wide margin. On Saturday, the combination of Chuck Newcomb and Larry Hoffner was too much for the Brighams to handle, as Newcomb hit for 23 points and provided the Rams' margin of victory. Eastis led the Cougar scoring over the weekend as he rammed 47 points total. Maintaining his high scoring, he hit for 24 Friday and 23 Saturday. Utah's Redskins, who were ranked 7th nationally at the time, provided the Cats' next challenge, and their touted bench strength finally wore down the Cougars for a 76-69 win. Eastis hit for 17 points in a closely contested first half which saw the Utes leading by a 40-39 margin at intermission, but the Cats went cold with only 6 points in the first 10 minutes of the second half, and that was the ball game. League-leading Utah State was the next opponent for the Y as the team traveled to Logan without Dave Eastis' services to face the Farmers. Max Perry, Cornell Green, and company never gave the Cougars a chance as they rolled up an early 16-8 lead and coasted in for an 84-53 win.

Returning to Provo, the Brighams reached another high point of the season, as Stan Watts won his 200th coaching victory as his crew rolled to a 95-97 win over New Mexico. A stellar performance by Dave Eastis brought him 44 points for the evening and a new fieldhouse scoring record. His 21 field goals also broke another fieldhouse record as he obliterated Jerry Lucas' mark of 16 set earlier in the season. Jim Peay and Jerry Cole led the Denver Pioneers to an 86-66 win over an inept bunch of Cats the next night, as Peay hit for 32 points and Cole masterminded the Pioneers' floor game. Mark Miller managed 21 points for the Y, but after being behind 39-33 at halftime, they couldn't get any closer as the Hilltoppers pulled away. Utah State then journeyed to Provo to meet the Cougars for the second time and came away with their second victory, but not until after the Cats threw a scare into them by pulling up to within 3 points late in the game. Max Perry proved to be the final difference, as he bagged 25 points and hit 13 for 13 from the foul line, most of which came late in the game. Taking an ever dangerous swing to the eastern end of the Conference, the Cats managed to split with Wyoming and Colorado State, as they beat Wyoming 75-70, and lost to the Colorado Rams 65-53.

A LOOSE BALL results in a mad scramble in the Ohio State game, as Valoy Eaton grapples for the ball.

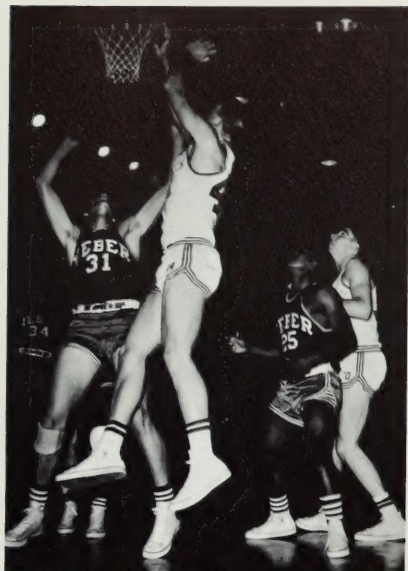

Utah's runnin' Redskins came to Provo for their second game with Coach Watts' crew, and almost ran the Cougars off the floor as they jumped out to a lead of 47-23 after 10 minutes of play, and were never headed thereafter in gaining an 87-75 win. Allen Holmes led scoring for the Utes, and Eastis hit for 21 for the Y. For their last home game, the Brighams got caught off guard as Montana's Grizzlies swamped them by an 87-67 margin. MSU's center, Duane Ruegsegger, led all scorers with 31 points and Gary Earnest's 16 was the best the lack-lustre Cougars could muster. It was MSU all the way as they out-shot, out-hustled, and out-rebounded the hapless Cats during the entire game.

When the Cougars traveled to Denver, the Pioneers were without the services of all-conference guard Jerry Cole, but he apparently wasn't needed as the Hilltoppers ran over the Y for an 88-68 win. The Cats rolled late in the second half to salvage a win in their final game against New Mexico by a score of 75-69. NMU led 42-40 at intermission, but the Cats, led by Dave Eastis' 25 points, came through for their win with a stall for the final 3 minutes which increased their lead and iced the game.

FRESHMEN BASKETBALL

UNIDENTIFIED FROSH BATTLE for a loose basketball against Dugway.

The frosh basketball forces compiled a record of 9 wins and 3 losses during a successful season which saw them win the mythical state frosh championship over Utah and Utah State. Before starting their season, the frosh gave the varsity a scare early in their traditional game before succumbing 81-68. After a group of intrasquad games, the Gatos entered the College of Southern Utah Invitational tourney and came in third with a 79-64 win over Compton Junior College after losing their opener to Glendale J. C. 75-62. They buried Dugway under an offensive barrage 112-60 before losing a 71-67 game to a highly touted Weber Junior College team. A Weber press in the last few minutes caught the Kittens off guard, as Weber overcame a large Kitten lead to win. During the next weekend, the Gatos hit the road, and won two games, beating arch-rival Utah 82-78 in a hotly contested game, and Mesa J. C. of Grand Junction, Colorado, 76-72. Their third straight road game proved to be too much, however, as the USU Ramblers broke a 66-66 tie late in the game with 6 straight points to ice a 72-70 win. Then the Gatos really turned on the offense, as they buried Tucker Air Force Base of Oklahoma City 105-69, and Hill AFB of Ogden, Utah 117-60. The Gatos then closed out their season with 3 straight wins, avenging their previous loss to USU and trimming Utah 97-67.

RON PINKSTON, Fred Nelson and Gale Johnson skim over the hurdles as they practice for future competition.

Cougar cindermen, under coach Clarence Robinson, opened their track season this year in quest of their sixth straight Skyline Conference championship. In addition to having five straight conference firsts, the Cats have won the conference Western Division championship six years in a row, and haven't lost a conference dual meet in seven years. The Cats showed their power in their first conference meet this year, as they annihilated arch-rival Utah by a 109-22 score in a show of possible things to come. This score was the widest margin by which a BYU team has ever won a dual meet. The present Cougar team has three conference record holders and three defending conference champs on the squad. Conference record holders are Gary Griffith in the two-mile, Marcus Nielsen in the pole vault, and Ed Costa in the high jump. Conference champs are Griffith in the 2-mile and mile, Alton Thygerson in the 100-yard dash, and Glade Nixon in the broad jump. Costa was among the top high-jumpers in the nation at press time, with a jump of 6 feet 11 $\frac{1}{8}$ inches in the BYU Invitational meet.

After a disastrous road trip to California to open the season in which they lost 9 out of 9 games, BYU baseballers, under new head coach Glen Tuckett, won 8 out of their next 10 games and were in the thick of the conference championship fight at press time. The Cats got on the victory path in their first four home games with twin wins over both Snow and Carbon Junior Colleges, but then lost their first two conference games to Utah 9-8 in Salt Lake, and 11-5 in Provo. Continuing in conference play, the Cougars clobbered Utah State with a barrage of hits to win a doubleheader 25-11 and 14-0, and then topped Montana 11-10 and 8-3 in another doubleheader in Provo. This left the Brighams with four wins and two losses in conference play and put them one-half game behind division leader Utah with half the season left to play.

Coach Dave Crowton's golf squad found itself on the short end of two of its first three matches in conference play, but was building under its new coach and showed some promise for the future by winning its last match before press time from Montana by a score of $11\frac{1}{2}$ to $6\frac{1}{2}$. The first two matches played found the Cats losing to Utah 16-2 and Utah State $11\frac{1}{2}$ to $6\frac{1}{2}$.

In their second year of intercollegiate competition, the BYU gymnasts participated in a program which included five dual meets and two invitationals. In these meets, there were only three in which the Cats had a full squad, as they beat Denver University and lost to Colorado State twice. Steve Pratt and LeMoyne DuPaix both took firsts in the Los Angeles State Invitational, which was a five-team meet. All five letter winners this year were sophomores, which shows promise of great things to come.

WHITE KEY

White Key honorary service sorority for senior women consisted of twenty-four girls who had maintained high academic standing, and who had shown outstanding leadership ability and a willingness to serve the school. As the oldest service unit on BYU campus, the White Keys traditionally led the Homecoming parade. As an aid to the entire studentbody, the unit published the White Key student directory at the beginning of the year. Other activities of the group included sponsoring the Cougarettes freshman women's drill team, performing special service projects for the university such as acting as hostesses for the spring track meet, participating in half-time shows at basketball games, and handing out football tickets. The girls also spent many hours in the Alumni Office helping Dr. T. Earl Pardoe with the same work for which the organization was first established by him. Officers of the unit were Maxine Lewis, President; Ra Chel Anderson, Vice-President; Christine Atkerson, Secretary; Cathi Groscoast, Treasurer; and Welda Lendt, Historian. Sponsor for the organization was Dr. Marion Bennion.

BLUE KEY

The members of Blue Key National Fraternity were selected on the basis of grade average and service to the university. With the motto, "Serving We Live," activity was the byword of the unit as the members kept a continual stream of projects in progress at all times. In addition to carrying on the traditional rivalry, with the Utah State chapter Blue Key for the old wagon wheel, the unit established a new tradition with the University of Utah between the two schools for a Union Pacific bell according to the highest accumulation of points from athletic events each year. Serving as officers were Dallas Merrell, President; Ted Sandberg, Vice-President; Bartel W. Cardon, Corresponding Secretary; Ted Packard, Alumni Secretary; and Wally Lehr, Treasurer. Clyde D. Sandgren sponsored the group.

Y CALCARES

The members of Y Calcares, junior women's honorary service unit, were noted for the enthusiasm with which they carried out service projects such as ushering at assemblies and lyceums, making stuffed toys for the Primary Children's Hospital, reading to blind students, and helping with registration. Y.C. members, chosen on the basis of academic achievement and participation in student affairs, willingly responded to the call of service to the university and the community. During the year the Y.C.'s took Thanksgiving and Easter baskets to needy Provo families and participated in the campus Christmas Drive.

Joint I.K. and Y.C. activities such as Hello Week, Belle of the Y Week, and the traditional invitational, Escapade in Ice, were some of the year's highlights. In conjunction with the invitational, the Y.C. of the Year, Kaye Passey, was announced. Serving as the year's officers were Kay Senzee, President; Pat Hixson, Vice-President; Pat Kelly, Secretary; Joan Justis, Treasurer, and Gail Wilhelmson, Historian. INTERCOLLEGIATE KNIGHTS

Members of Gold Y Chapter of Intercollegiate Knights national honorary service fraternity were chosen on the basis of activity and scholarship. With the purpose of service, the chapter awarded scholarships to worthy students, ushered at lyceums, devotionals, and ball games, and guided visitors around campus. Besides their traditional sponsorship of Hello Week and Belle of the Y Week with Y Calcares, the IK's took care of lighting the Y for special occasions and ringing the Old Y Bell. The chapter also carried out special projects under the supervision of the university administration. Special recognition was brought to the chapter at regional convention as their Duchess won the regional contest and Clark Neuroh was chosen a regional officer. The year's officers were Sterling Rigby, Duke; Clark Neuroh, Vice-Duke; Dave Dredge, Scribe; Don Harvey, Chancellor; Boyd Hale, Recorder; Wayne Sabey, Executioner. Ray Beckham was sponsor.

SPUR OFFICERS Carolyn Decker, Renea Norton, Shirley Greene, Marcia Bourn, Chris Allred, and Sandra Dosal.

Members of the BYU Spurs chapter of the national honorary service unit for sophomore women were chosen on the basis of academic achievement and a willingness to serve, honor, and uphold BYU standards. Sponsored by Bliss Finlayson and guided by officers Carolyn Decker, President; Shirley Greene, Vice-President; Renea Norton, Secretary; Marcia Bourn, Treasurer; Sandra Dosal, Historian; and Christine Allred, Editor, the unit participated in many worthwhile service projects. Included in their activities were ushering at assemblies, marching in the Homecoming parade, selling tickets, working at election tables, making stuffed animals for orphanages, and working in the Alumni Office. Unit traditions which the members participated in were tapping new Spurs in the spring, their annual invitational, the special initiation ceremony, and participation in Song Fest. They also had engaged girls parties, secret pals, and a traditional 6 a.m. breakfast for the Y.C.'s

SPONSOR CORPS

Allene Calder, Commandant

"Happiness through service" was the basic theme of the AFOTC Sponsor Corps as they strived to maintain esprit de corps. Each Monday the members donned their uniforms of Air Force Blue and participated in Leadership Lab Drill with the ROTC cadets. Sponsors supported the cadets and upheld the dignity of the U.S. Air Force through achievement and service to others. They presented the ROTC-Sponsor Corps assembly, participated in parades and ceremonies, sponsored blood drives, held an Easter Egg hunt for the Wymount children, ushered at assemblies, and had social exchanges. The events which added something special to the year were the drill competitions with drill teams of other universities, a trip to Hill Air Force Base, the Military Ball, and the spring dinner-dance. Heading the corps were Allene Calder, Commandant; Ann Marie Doty, executive officer; Margene Symons, administrative officer; and Charlotte Allen, social chairman.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Previous members of Boy Scouts had the opportunity to serve the university in Alpha Phi Omega, national scouting fraternity. The main project of the year was the establishment of a First Aid Station in Smith Fieldhouse. Other activities engaged in by the group included ushering at assemblies, helping at the Invitational track meet and the Big and Little Sister picnic, and being in charge of first aid on Y Day. Officers were Craig Whitehead, President; Dick Bolton, First Vice-President; Karl Seethaler, Second Vice-President; and Jon Ord, Secretary.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA OFFICERS Dick Bolton, Craig Whitehead, and Karl Seethaler made a special presentation to President Taylor during Boy Scout Week.

SERVICE UNIT MEMBERS William Adams and Jill Carlston lent a helping hand to students as they worked in the inter-service booth.

COMMON INTEREST

Liking the same things or claiming the same hometown brought students together for parties and serious moments. Common interest was a strong binding influence among friends.

Row One: David Austin, Vic Oldroyd, Marty Harris, Billy George, Gordie Whitmore, Doug Evans. Row Two: Bill Jackson, John Ord, Tracy Calvert, Ken Pierce, Sterling Brimley, Douglas H. Thayer.

SPORTSMEN

Aiming at achieving a balance between leadership, outdoor sports, and social and cultural activities, the Sportsmen were organized during Winter Quarter of 1959. With an emphasis on "doing," the group participated in several forms of outdoor life during the year. Doug Thayer acted as sponsor to the group with officers Martin Harris, Director; Bill George, Business Manager; and Gordon Whitmore, Historian. Special activities included the Sportsmen Cup Ski Race for both students and townspeople, a river run, rabbit hunt, and a Sports Week with competition in sports and a water show.

Sportswomen, the sister unit to Sportsmen, was organized in 1959. Members shared an interest in outdoor activities and a desire to participate in the group activities. Sponsored by Phyllis Jacobsen and Barbara Uibel, the members of the unit strived for a balance between spiritual, academic, cultural, and social aspects of life through individual effort. The officers included Joan Peterson, President; Helen Bartlett, Treasurer; Carolyn Beck, Secretary; and Claudia Clark, Activity Chairman. Activities included a Sportsfeast pheasant hunt and dinner dance, ski trips, water ski show, and other sports activities.

ALPINE CLUB

The common interest of the members of the Alpine Club was an interest in all phases of sports and a desire to find out what the Utah area had to offer them in these fields. The most professional climbers of the group were members of the Sheriff's Rescue Team which was on call in any emergency. Winter skiing and touring, hiking to the club's cabin in Aspen Grove, water skiing, and tubing were the main activities of the group. Officers were Boyd Tangren, President; Darel Davenport, Vice-President; Joan Wanlass, Secretary; and Chris Vickari, Social Chairman.

Afio Mai Club, noted as one of the finest show-making groups on campus, was composed of students from many different cultures who shared an interest in the songs and dances of the Samoans and Tongans. Besides taking a high school tour throughout southern Utah and participating in their yearly Polynesian assembly, the Afio Mai performed in shows for the Program Bureau. Special features of the group were the Afio Mai Serenaders and the Samoan Knife-fire Dance. Officers of the group were Paovale M. Sagapolu, President; Amy Fuchigami, Vice-President; Betty Turpin, Secretary; and Sharon Ballard, Social Chairman; with Dr. Richard Snow as sponsor.

BEAR LAKE CLUB

The Bear Lake Club was organized to promote unity and friendship among students from the Bear Lake area of northeastern Utah and southeastern Idaho. Some of the year's club activities included the Christmas and summer parties, held at home, to which students from other universities were invited. Other social and spiritual activities of the year were highlighted by a fireside where the history of Bear Lake County was related. Officers were Phil Kunz, President; Karen Sleight, Vice-President; and Verda Rex, Secretary. LeVar Bateman was sponsor.

California Club was reorganized fall quarter by Jerry Mason, Ray Lowry, Carol Garns, Aldine Gibson, and Jelaire Edwards. The aims of the reorganized club were three s's—social, spiritual, and scholastic. Social activities of the year included sponsoring a successful studentbody dance, a Welcome Back party, a special roller-skating party, and a spring quarter picnic. The year's officers were Maxine Ellen Jensen, President; Jerry Mason, Vice-President; Aldine Gibson, Secretary; and Carol Garns, Social Chairman. Chris Poulos sponsored the club.

CONFEDERATE CLUB

Southern students at BYU had the opportunity to join in fellowship with each other in the Confederate Club, which was organized on campus in autumn of 1955. Much of the club's efficient organization and successful social program was due to the leadership of officers Richard Mathis, President; Ronnie Kirkland, Vice-President; and Le-vinia Jenkins, Secretary. The many activities of the year included tobogganing and ice-skating parties in the winter, canyon picnics, swimming and tubing parties in the spring, special club firesides, and participation in Song Fest during spring quarter. Dean David Yarn was sponsor.

CONFEDERATE CLUB MEMBERS held an openhouse for interested southern students.

KIA ORA CLUB

MAORI WAR DANCE performed by Pete Henderson, Darris Bright, and Frank Horton was a special feature of club programs.

The membership of Kia Ora Club, which presented in song and dance the culture of the Maori people of New Zealand, consisted of Polynesians, returned missionaries from New Zealand and others who had a desire to learn more of the culture. During the year, the club presented programs at the request of wards and organizations in the area and also toured nearby states. The club stressed the spiritual, intellectual, and social development of its members through firesides and parties held throughout the year. Officers of the group were Pete Henderson, President; Darris Bright and Welda Lendt, Vice-Presidents; Joan Kimball, Secretary; Sue Deputy, Treasurer, Huia Christy, Dance Director. Frank K. Horton was sponsor of the group.

WASHINGTON CLUB

Any students who were present or recent residents of the state of Washington were eligible to join the Washington Club. Activities of the club included chartering buses for the Christmas trip home to Washington, holding exchange socials, participating in various service projects, and attending their annual dinner dance. Officers of the group were John H. Yearout, President; Steve Bone, Vice-President; Mary Merrell, Secretary; and Sue Yank, Social Chairman. Richard Pratt acted as sponsor of the group.

A roller skating exchange with Cache Valley Club and the traditional toboggan party with Confederate Club highlighted the year for members of Yankee Club. The easterners also had a variety of parties and meetings on their own where they ate and danced or played games. One long remembered meeting featured a panel discussion on the question "Which Is The Stronger Sex?" In the spring, the Yankees along with Confederate Club sponsored a Civil War Week complete with Mason-Dixon Line. Competition was held in everything from softball to pie baking and eating. Officers were Lance Chase, President; Ken McAllister, Vice-President; Bob Jenkins, Secretary; Bob Curran and Ginger Wyss, Social Chairmen; and Ann Laker, Historian.

YANKEE CLUB

OREGON CLUB

Winning the geographical trophy during IOC Week was one of the highlights of the year for Oregon Club members. Other activities included a Christmas party with the Washington Club and the chartering of a bus with the Washington Club to go home during the Christmas holidays. Reactivated this year, the Oregon Club made a name for itself under the guidance of officers Bill Burnett, President; Kathy Erickson, Vice-President of Publicity; Donna Leder, Vice-President of Social Activities; Nadine Brooks, Secretary; Jaquie Wilson, Historian; and Michael Vosika, Sergeant-at-Arms.

Returned missionaries from Mexico belonging to Ex-Mexican Missionaries got together often to reminisce about the old days in the land south of the border. They viewed each other's slides and had Mexican dinners. The group's favorite menu consisted of mole with pavo, tacos, enchiladas, spanish rice, and Mexican punch. One of the highlights of the year was breaking the pinata at the annual Christmas party. Bevan O. Haycock was sponsor of the group. Officers were Wayne Lesue, President; Nena Flake, Vice-President; and Tita Alfaro, Secretary.

Sylvia Vincent, President

SHOMRAH KIYEL OFFICERS Sylvia Vincent, Pat Taylor, Laura Fox, Nancy Clarke, Marilyn Manning, and Lorrie Worthen.

SHOMRAH KIYEL

The membership of Shomrah Kiyel, a unit unique on BYU campus, was composed of girls waiting for their missionary sweethearts to return from the mission field. They joined together for social activities under the Hebrew name signifying "keeper of the faith," with the forget-me-not as their symbol. The members enjoyed testimony meetings, lesson nights, book reviews, seasonal parties, and companionship with one another while waiting out the time until their missionaries would be home. Welcome home parties were held for each returning missionary and his girl. Officers were Sylvia Vincent, President; Pat Taylor, Vice-President; Marilyn Manning, Secretary; Laura Fox, Treasurer; Joan Morrison, Historian; and Joyce Roberts, Social Chairman. Mrs. Wayne B. Hales was sponsor of the unit.

DELTA PHI OFFICERS Andy Walton, Don Garner, David Finlinson, Glayde Hill, and Jack Cousins.

DELTA PHI

Delta Phi, a national honorary fraternity for men who had served six months or more as missionaries, provided service, as well as spiritual, scholastic, and social outlets for its members. The group sponsored the Delta Phi Dream Girl contest in which Carolyn Decker was chosen Dream Girl on the basis of her beauty, talent, personality, and spirituality. Other campus activities sponsored by the unit were the Christmas Season Mistletoe Frolic and a studentbody extemporaneous speech contest. The most outstanding feature of the group was the Delta Phi Chorus, which toured the United States at the close of spring

ALCYONE

Janet Nims, President

Alcyone social unit was organized on BYU campus in 1951. With a reputation for being a friendly unit, Alcyone had exchanges with other units, held their annual invitational and their spring dinner dance, and put on the traditional Luau in the spring with Athenians. Other featured activities of the year included the Alcyone fashion show, presentation of a student assembly, a unit birthday party, and participation in Homecoming, Winter Carnival, Songfest, and Y Day activities. The unit's most outstanding culture night of the year featured Captain DeVere Baker of the raft Lehi, who related some of his exciting experiences while on his raft journey. Mrs. Wilford Smith sponsored the unit.

CAMI LOS

Cami Los was organized in 1952 when a group of girls set up the standards and goals of social development, scholastic achievement, and recognition through service which they wished their organization to exemplify. This year's activities included participating in Homecoming and Winter Carnival, staging their fall invitational and spring dinner dance, presenting a student assembly, and holding exchanges with other units. President Sherry Hale brought Cami Los the distinction of having Homecoming Queen this year. The members of the unit worked together to develop themselves through their sisterhood and strengthened their unity through quarterly testimonial meetings. Mrs. B. Jensen and Mrs. McGinnes sponsored the unit.

A MOAT and drawbridge furnished the entrance to the fall quarter invitational.

DIXIE RANDALL and other guests received favors at the Cami Los invitational.

DILECTUS CHI SORORES

Eliza Jo Paine, President

During autumn quarter of 1959, thirty charter members were chosen and these girls set up the policies, constitutions, and other prerequisites for Dilectus Chi Sorores, a new BYU women's social unit. As "Beloved Sisters" the new members of Di Chi rapidly became organized and began participating in regular social unit functions. Besides exchanges, firesides, and intramural competition, the unit held its first annual dinner dance, "Elysian Fields." A new and different culture night program was initiated with culture nights being held once a week after short business meetings. These culture periods were prepared by the girls in the unit, and included such topics as sports cars, fashions, music appreciation, current news, and book and show reviews. Another special activity of the unit was participating in Songfest. Mrs. Diane Chatwin and Miss Elaine Brasher were sponsors.

DI CHI OFFICERS Linda Young, Diane Hess, Jan Lauritz, Carla Presly, and "Jo" Paine.

AN ORIENTAL MOOD was set by Di Chi at Songfest.

KAPPA DEBONAIRE

Alton Jensen, President

Kappa, the tenth letter of the Greek alphabet, and Debonaire, meaning affable, genial, and courteous, were combined for the name of the tenth women's social unit to be founded at BYU. The unit was begun in 1954 with forty-two members and since then has grown to full capacity of sixty members who take an active part in unit and campus activities. The goal of the group was to be the friendliest unit on campus. The main social events of the year were the invitational, birthday party, dinner dance held at Alta and the spring Homestead party. Also on the Kappa Deb agenda for the year were a breakfast-testimonial and several culture nights and exchanges, along with participation in Homecoming and Songfest. Mrs. Armin J. Hill and Mrs. Stephen Covey were Kappa Deb sponsors.

NEW PLEDGE Judy Peterson received her KD flower from member Barbara Ingersoll.

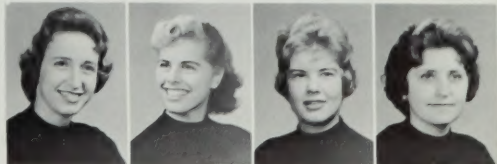

KD's INVITATIONAL was anticipated by Brooks Larson, Lynne Barlow, Doris Allred, and Heber Tippets.

NAUTILUS OF NLU

To further love and friendship among its members and to foster spiritual and cultural growth through unit activities are the ideals and purposes of Nautilus of N.L.U., which was organized in 1920 by eight girls who chose as their symbol the chambered nautilus and as their motto, "Excelsior Ever Higher." During the year Nautilus members enjoyed a full schedule of activities including culture nights, exchanges, intramurals, buddy parties, service projects, and participation in studentbody activities such as Homecoming and Songfest. Nautilus and Delta Phi sponsored the annual Christmas assembly. Other traditional activities which the unit participated in were the fall invitational and the spring dinner dance. Sponsors for the year were Mrs. Clyde D. Sangdren and Mrs. Dallan R. Clark.

O S TROVATA

"To know only the pure in heart so that I might know only the pure in life." This expression is only a small part of the O.S. Trovata creed. O.S., the oldest women's unit on campus, has long strived to live up to the academic, social, and spiritual standards of BYU. O.S. began their year of accomplishments with members Lynn Fechser and Gwen Newton reigning as attendants to the Homecoming Queen. Members and their guests spent an ethereal evening at the fall quarter invitational, "Septieme Ciel." During winter quarter rush season, O.S. inaugurated a unique openhouse. Their annual assembly produced with the Bricker social unit, "Culturemania," was acclaimed by all. Other activities of the year included culture nights, exchanges, participation in Songfest, the annual dinner dance, and a spring canyon party. Sponsors of the unit were Mrs. DeCosta Clark and Miss Jeannette Morrell.

OST MEMBERS, led by President Becky Campbell, danced in the OST-Bricker assembly.

KATHY PHEGLEY, Ann Haynie, Shauna Swenson, and Lynn Fechser worked on decorations for their invitational, "Septieme Ciel."

THE UNIT'S IOC booth featured OST trophies and emblem.

TOKALON

"To seek beauty in all things" is the ideal which members of ToKalon social unit strive to maintain. Outstanding events of the 1959-60 year included the ToKalon-Tau Sigma assembly, "The Black Rainbow," the annual invitational, "Gold Wind," the Christmas Traditional, and participation in Songfest. A special accomplishment of the unit was winning the scholarship trophy. Other unit activities included participation in Homecoming, visits to the State Mental Hospital, participation in the intramural program, and donations to the campus Blood Drive and Campus Chest drive. Firesides and testimonials added spiritual influence to the year's activities. The spring social season concluded with the annual dinner dance held at the Salt Lake Country Club. Mrs. Ina Lou Cheney sponsored the unit.

VAL NORN

Val Norn, one of the oldest women's units on campus, was organized in 1928. The purpose of the organization was to further bonds of friendship between members and to support all school activities through combining scholastic abilities with service and social activities. Both the service and scholarship trophies have been retired. Besides various service projects, Val Norn produced their annual assembly with the Vikings, sponsored sport teams, and participated in campus activities such as Homecoming, Songfest, and Winter Carnival. Other outstanding activities included their invitational, "Feast of the Gods", carnival rush party, Banquet of the Yellow Roses, Alumni Tea, buddy party, spring canyon party, annual dinner dance, and exchanges. Mrs. Lavern Green and Mrs. Ralph Britsch were sponsors.

THE VAL NORN-Bricker Hawaiian exchange was enjoyed by Aniene Andrus, Dale Madsen, Joyce Hiatt, and Dave Nelson.

FIDELAS

Over a quarter of a century ago, a group of LDS girls organized Amici Fidelas Ami, "Friends Faithful Forever." These young women desired a social organization which would fill their desire for service, activity and entertainment, and sisterhood, in conjunction with spirituality. Since that time Fidelas has fulfilled these needs for a great many girls as the unit's traditional activities were established and carried out with the goal of perfecting the twelve virtues symbolized on the unit's pin. The year's activities included presentation of a student assembly, special culture nights, exchanges, and the annual dinner dance and invitational. Fidelas also sponsored the traditional sign-up for Thanksgiving dinners for students remaining on campus over the holiday. Brother and Sister John Gurney sponsored the unit.

AZYAN TZATA

The newest women's social unit on campus, Azyan Tzata, was instigated by Shirley Nissen and Joyce Gay during winter quarter of 1960. In a meeting of sixty interested girls, they voted on each other and the top thirty became the charter members of the new unit. Quickly forming "Eternal Friendships," and with the purpose of making history setting traditions, the members organized a ball team, began planning an invitational, and elected officers. Newly elected officers were Joyce Gay, President; Christine Allred, Vice-President; LaVon Stevens, Secretary; Sharlene Ellsworth, Corresponding Secretary; and Jennine Bechtold, Treasurer. One of the unit's first special activities was working on Songfest decorations.

ORGANIZATION OF the newest women's social unit was celebrated by LaVon Stephens, Joyce Gay, and Shirley Nissen.

ATHENIAN

One of the youngest units on campus, the Athenian social unit was organized in 1951 with the motto, "Faciamus Quam Dicamus"—Let us act rather than let us talk. Especially noted for their brotherhood, Athenians actively participated in campus activities as the unit won the supremacy trophy for the fifth consecutive year. A special feature of basketball half-time entertainment was furnished by Athenians as they sponsored the Debonette marching group from Overton, Nevada. The year's activities included a series of exchanges and parties and participation in Songfest, Homecoming, and Winter Carnival. Concluding the year was their annual Dixie Ball, which received national recognition and was considered to be one of the outstanding social events at BYU. The unit's sponsors were Lynn McKinlay and Ben Lewis.

BRIGADIERS' HOMECOMING float posed the question, "What was your dream?"

Bob Robinson, President

BRIGADIER

Brigadier Social unit, organized in 1931, has carved its niche in the social life of the university with the definite objective of creating better fellowship through common social interests. During fall quarter the Brigs held exchanges with Nautilus and participated in Homecoming as they sponsored a float and held an openhouse. Winter quarter the Brigs sponsored their annual invitational, had a successful stag breakfast during rush, and held their annual Bowery Brawl in an atmosphere resembling the Gay Twenties. During spring quarter, the Brigs held their dinner dance in Salt Lake City and staged their annual steak fry and canyon party at Kelly's Grove. On Y Day, the members did their traditional job of mixing the whitewash for the Y, as well as competing in the afternoon's contests. Jack Berge was sponsor of the unit.

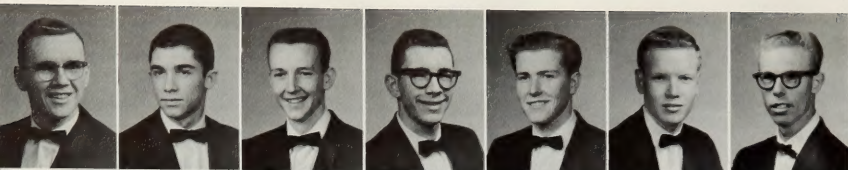

A GIANT SNOWMAN was Brigs' entry in the snow sculpture contest.

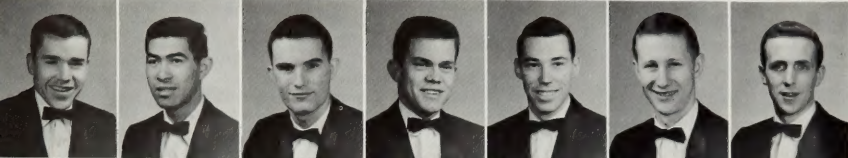

BRIGADIER EMBLEMS were displayed by Wayne Muhlestein at Brigs' booth during IOC Week.

DELTA RHO

David Jarman, President

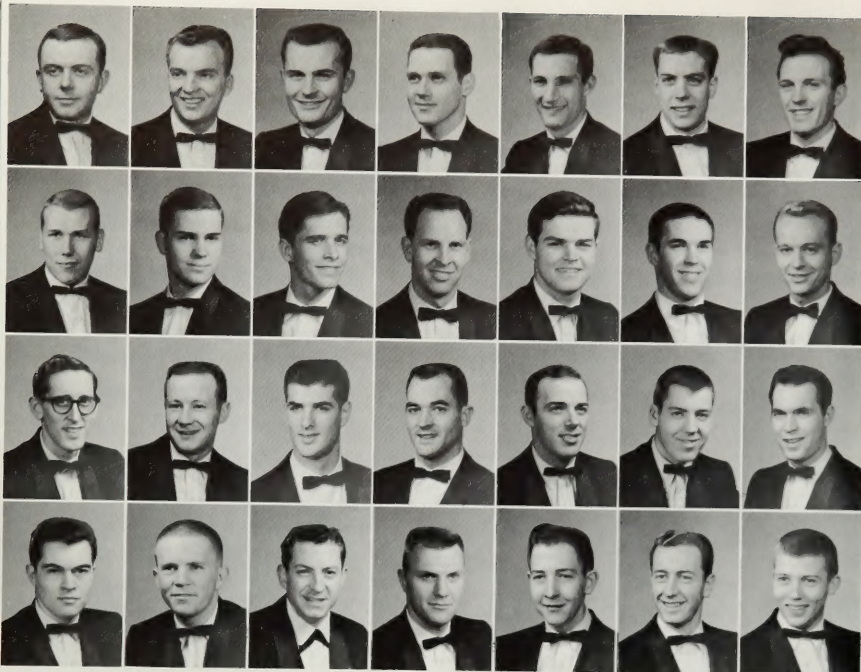

During the spring quarter of 1960 a new social unit was formed by a small number of enthusiastic BYU men students. Adopting the name Delta Rho, the members of the unit dedicated themselves to scholarship, brotherhood, spirituality, and fellowship, as they looked forward to a prosperous future. They set as their goals to bring progress to the university and to offer a rewarding and healthy atmosphere to every student who will be a member of Delta Rho. The unit's full schedule of activities included exchanges, participation in intramurals, and their first annual spring dinner dance. Sponsor of the unit was Lynn Ravsten.

LOOKING FORWARD to party fun were Bob Lewis, Nancy Robins, and Neal Anderson.

GOLDBRICKER

Richard Malan, President

Founded in 1917 by a group of World War I veterans, the Goldbricker social unit is the oldest social unit on campus. Brickers are characterized by their belief in balanced social activity and fellowship, and the perpetuation of college friendships through an active alumni association. This year's social program included such traditional activities as the annual alumni reunion banquet, the spring quarter invitational, a formal dinner and dance, the Bricker-O.S. Trovata student assembly presentation, the "Misfit" party, a buddy party, and Spring Festival. The unit also participated in Homecoming, and Winter Carnival. Dr. Clinton L. Oaks was the unit's sponsor.

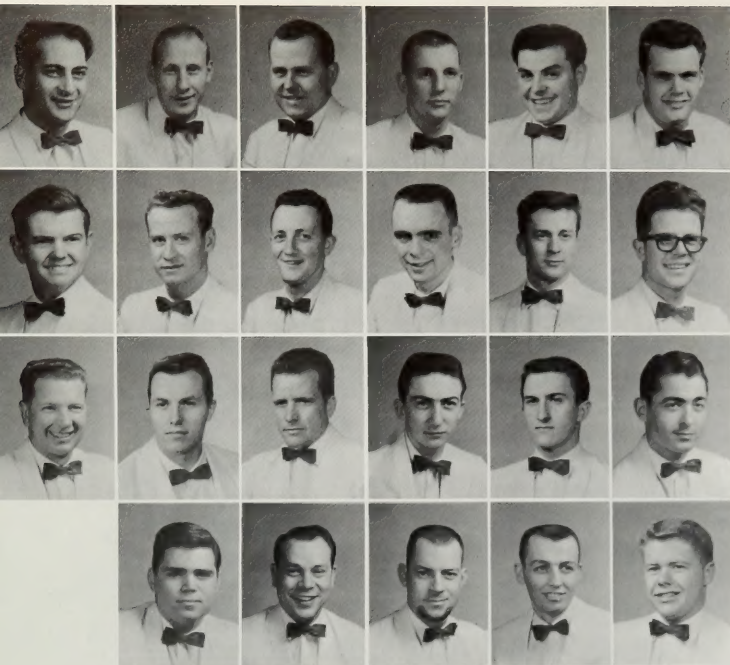

"TAKING OFF" was entered in the snow sculpture competition.

SAXON

Saxon social unit, re-activated in 1959 after three years of inactivity, was conceived in brotherhood and unity. With the Greek letters Alpha Omega on their pin reflecting unit brotherhood, and the motto, From Beginning to the End, the Saxons were one of the most vigorous and active units on campus. Included in a well-rounded schedule of activities were exchanges with women's units, a dinner dance, an invitational, and participation in intramural athletics. Saxons entered a float in the Homecoming parade and competed in the sports contests and snow sculpture competition during Winter Carnival Week. The unit also participated in Songfest and the presentation of a student assembly with Alcyone. Bob Thomas and Ivan Barrett were sponsors of the unit.

THE SAXON EMBLEM was displayed at the unit meetings.

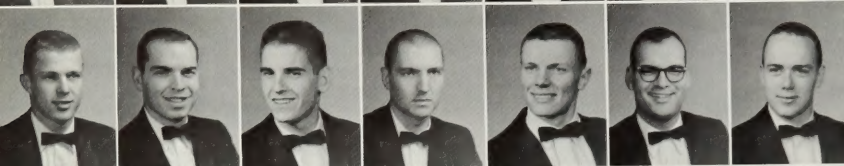

ERNEST MIDDLETON tended the unit booth during IOC Week.

TAU SIGMA

Since its inception in 1915, Tau Sigma social unit has built a tradition of loyalty and fraternity with its goal of providing an outlet for members' desire for social betterment and providing opportunities for growth in highly important social consciousness not available in the strictly academic curriculum of the university. During the year the Tau Sigs' athletic abilities were evidenced by their intamural victories and their capture of the Broken Ski during Winter Carnival Week. Tau Sigma merited special recognition for their Homecoming float entry, Battle Hymns, which won the sweepstakes award. Two other important Tau Sig activities were their traditional Deer Bust and participation in Songfest. Other social events of the year included Christmas and New Year's parties, exchanges, and the invitational. Glenn Davis and LeRoy Porter were sponsors.

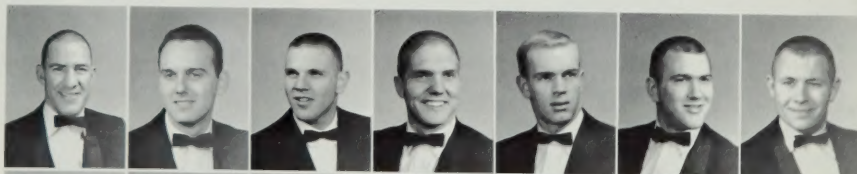

CASTLE OF LOVE was a prize-winning snow sculpture for Tau Sigs.

VAL HYRIC

Taking its name from Norse mythology, Val Hyric social unit was founded on the immortal rock of friendship and organized in 1928. The tradition and brotherhood of Val Hyric are built upon a record of academic, athletic, and social activities. This year was filled with social highlights from start to finish. Some of the year's special features included the stag deer hunt, Val Halla invitational, Val Luau, and Asgard two-day dinner dance. In athletic competition throughout the year, the unit was seldom out-pointed. The unit participated in Homecoming and Winter Carnival, taking first place in the Winter Carnival snow-sculpturing competition. Sponsors were Dr. Wilford Smith and Dr. Gaylon Caldwell.

VIKING

Besides being one of the largest social units on campus, the Vikings were one of the most active. They were in the upper bracket of the intramurals, winning the supremacy trophy for the second straight year. Songfest, Homecoming, Snow Carnival, and Y Day found them participating with enthusiasm. Their Homecoming float entry was a special eye-catcher as they pulled and rolled it down the street on logs. This year the new navy blue blazer and crest made their appearance on campus, going along with the unit's characteristics of fraternalism and unity. Special activities of the year included the traditional invitational and dinner dance and presentation of a student assembly with Val Norn. Steve Covey and Dr. Howard Nielson sponsored the unit.

A CLOSING WORD -- OR LA CAVE SOUS LA TERRE

The school year 1959-60 is now only a memory. In putting together this book, we have endeavored to provide you with something which in years to come will bring back to you the joys and accomplishments which you have experienced during the year. The production of a book such as the Banyan requires the concerted effort of many people, and for those of us who have put a part of ourselves into it, the book provides different memories—memories of hours of work and decisions, and sacrificing other things so that deadlines could be met. We spent many cool, moonlit autumn evenings in our windowless office in the basement of the Student Service Center, deprived ourselves of numerous dates, or brought our reluctant dates to the office to help finish up the classes section. On cold winter nights and many Saturdays we were completely cut off from the outside world except for the incessant jangle of the telephone and a scattering of lost or curious people who found their way to room 143 SSC for photo appointments, lost Banyan stubs, and a million other little details we thought would never end. Occasionally as we made our way to the press in the evening or started home, we heard the tantalizing strains of dance music floating over from the Family Living Center and we had to content ourselves with the thought that next week we could see that dance when the proofs came up from the darkroom. We remember the ecstasy of the fresh air in our faces when we came up from the depths into the daylight world or the cool night, the element of surprise when we discovered a fresh blanket of snow on the ground after our Banyan sojourn all day Saturday, the thousand-and-one trips to the press to deliver completed pages and pick up proofs, and last of all, drawing lines on the index pages until our heads swam. We remember, too, the staff parties we didn't have because work had to come before play, and the exultation and the fun we had when we finally succeeded in throwing our grand-slam soiree after the last pages had gone to press. Then we had only to read more proof sheets, check the never-ending flow of blueprints, and wait for our sneak preview party and the day when the Banyans would be distributed.

We hope you will understandingly accept the errors which you may find, and we extend our apologies to those seniors whose pictures appear outside the senior section. We wish at this time to express appreciation to many who have made the production of this book possible: To Delvar Pope of the Y Press who throughout the year patiently assisted us with many problems; to Jerry Rogers of the BYU Photo Studio who spent long hours painstakingly checking facial and background tones of thousands of individual portraits; to last year's editor, Lynn G. Hale, who came back to provide us with the cover design and photograph; to Julie Pingree and Judy Bilderback for accepting responsibilities and enduring to the end; to former editor, Wally Barrus, who with infinite understanding and patience provided us with photographs of drama and other materials which otherwise we could not have obtained; to the Improvement Era for the painting of President McKay; to the Spurs and Y Calcares for selling Banyans and making picture appointments; to Nautilus, White Key, Y Calcares, Intercollegiate Knights, Spurs, and Sponsor Corps for compiling the index; to Les Young who provided us with art work when he was already carrying a heavy load; to professors Roman Andrus and Richard Gunn of the Art Department for helpful suggestions; and to the understanding midnight custodial staff of the Clark Student Service Center.
